WILSON'S CURRENCY BILL DIVIDES U. S. INTO BANKING ZONES

Journal Is Able to Give an Outline of Measure Which President Will Insist Be Passed at This Session

WILSON'S OPTIMISM HAS NOT BEEN SHAKEN YET

Rumors of Break Between the President and Party Discredited—McAdoo, Houston and McReynolds, Control Board

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The optimism of President Wilson concerning the enactment of currency legislation at this session of congress has not been shaken by the persistent rumors of an impending break between the president and his party on this question.

It is unquestionably true that the situation is clearer today than it was forty-eight hours ago, although there are many details of the administration currency bill in dispute as between leaders in both houses of congress. It is believed, however, that the president has succeeded in bringing the leaders into agreement as regards the frame work of the measure on which he will rest his case, and these are grounds for reassurance.

The opposition to tackling the currency at this session is gradually abating in congress as it becomes more apparent that the president will be able to offer a bill that will be acceptable to practically every element of the party. The general scheme of this bill has not been divulged, but enough is known of its important features to make it practically certain that it will meet most every objection that could be offered.

Leaders who wield influence in congress and who enjoy the confidence of the president do not regard as sinister the fact that financial experts in the two houses are evolving a temporary makeshift to relieve the present financial stringency.

They accept this as a good indication, as they believe it is evidence of an awakening as to the importance of dealing with the currency question at this session. They do not believe that the administration bill, notwithstanding its comprehensive scope, will appeal so strongly to the practical view of these men that they will abandon their "temporary expedients" and line up squarely behind the Wilson program of currency reform.

While no authoritive setatement concerning the provisions of the administration bill has been given out, a number of the important features which it embraces have been obtained by The Journal.

The sub-division of the United States into a number of banking zones and the creation of a board of control, to consist of the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of agriculture and the attorney general, furnish the basis on which the administration bill will rest.

In each of the banking zones there will be a regional bank, to be located by the board of control. The stockholders in these regional banks must have a capital stock of not less than $5,000,000. The stockholders of regional banks will not elect their directors. These will be appointed by the board of control, and it is provided that the stockholders' representation in the directorates shall be limited to one-third of their entire membership.

Another third of the directors of the regional banks shall be representative of and chosen from the industrial, agricultural and commercial interests of the zone in which the regional bank is located. Another third shall be named by the board of control without respect to either of the other requirements.

The regional bank will issue treasury notes, to be supplied by the United States government, to the banks of the zone, upon such security as may be approved by the directors of the regional bank, subject to the inspection and approval of the board of control.

The plan provides that profits of regional banks in excess of five per cent shall be turned into the national treasury.

A liberal opportunity and inducement to all state banks to avail themselves of the benefits of the regional banks is provided in the plan, as it is also a more liberal governmental policy toward security other than stocks and bonds.

Eighty Women Burned to Death

Villagers Enraged Over Importation of Cheap Girl Labor Nail Victims Up in Barn and Apply Torch in Southern Russia

(By Associated Press.)

ST. PETERSBURG, June 19.—Eighty women were burned to death today by villagers enraged at the importation of cheap girl labor to work on a sugar estate in the district of Poltatva, in the province of Poltava, Southern Russia, according to the Kiev newspaper, Liamin.

The excited villagers first securely fastened all the means of exit from a wooden barn in which the women were housed. They then set fire to the building while the inmates were asleep, and all were burned to death without a chance to escape.

Boy Given Parole

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 19.—Tom Wise, thirteen-year-old white boy who was sent to the penitentiary from Cullman county in 1910 for wrecking a Louisville and Nashville train, was granted a parole by Governor O'Neal yesterday so he could care for his widowed mother.

POLICE DRIVE HORSES INTO SEA AND RESCUE WOMEN AND CHILDREN

The Coney Island Policemen, Mounted as Horse Marines, Swim Their Steeds 300 Feet Through Dangreous Surf

CHILDREN IN ARMS RIDE ASHORE ON HORSEBACK

Great Throng Cheers as Officers Go to Rescue of Party in Small Craft Menaced by a Choppy Sea

NEW YORK, June 19.—Coney Island policemen mounted as horse marines have become a valuable adjunct to the life saving forces at that popular resort.

Two of the mounted patrolmen, Edwin Cody and James J. McDonald, who were on regular duty regulating traffic ashore, distinguished themselves yesterday when they swam horses about 300 feet out to sea and rescued seven persons from a disabled motorboat.

A thirty-five foot craft was nearly swamped by a choppy sea and two women in the party with children in arms were screaming for help, while the throng of promenaders ashore stood helpless.

But the two bluecoats mounted on firstclass steeds that had been taught to swim, did not hesitate for a moment. They wheeled their chargers, swerved them down over the embankment onto the beach and plunged into the surf.

The tide was such that the horses had not gone more than 75 feet before they were "off their legs" and had to swim. Horses and riders bobbed up and down half submerged while a crowd on the beach cheered their efforts.

Cody and McDonald not only reached the craft in time to rescue the women and children, but went back a second time and towed in the boat with its men occupants.

The policemen's horses appeared to derive dumb pleasure from being patted and applauded. As for Cody and McDonald the hot sun soon dried their trousers and they did not bother to go off duty until their day was over.

HOOPER RETURNS AND TAKES UP PHAGAN CASE

Declares Trip to Cincinnati Had Nothing to oD With Murder Mystery

Frank A. Hooper, the experienced prosecutor, who has been engaged to assist Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey in the trial of the case against Leo M. Frank, returned Thursday from a three days' trip to Cincinnati, and set at rest the rumors that he went to the Ohio city on a matter connected with the investigation of the Phagan murder mystery.

Mr. Hooper declared that his private business called him to Cincinnati, and that his trip was in no way connected with the Phagan case.

While away Mr. Hooper states that he did not see Solicitor Dorsey nor did he see Attorney Thomas B. Felder, who went to the same city on a matter, which he said before leaving, was not connected with the Phagan case nor with the famous dictograph episode.

Mr. Hooper declares that so far as he knows there are no new developments in the Phagan mystery.

"The state's case is regarded as complete," Mr. Hooper said, "and we are simply waiting for the hour of the trial to come."

Mr. Hooper would not discuss the testimony of Mrs. Minna Formby, who returned to the city Tuesday after an absence of several weeks.

Mrs. Formsby made an affidavit for the detectives in which she alleged that Leo M. Frank phoned her residence at 400 Piedmont avenue, a number of times between the hours of 6:30 p. m. and 10 p. m. on the evening of the tragedy, and each time begged her to let him bring a girl to her house.

WON'T BE CALLED.

It is considered improbable, however, that Mrs. Formsby will be called as a state's witness when the case against Frank is tried, for it has been known from the first that her story did not fit in with the theory of the state as to Frank's actions on the night of the tragedy.

The fact that Mrs. Formsby had returned to the city became known to the detective department, when she phoned headquarters that practically all of the furniture in her apartment had mysteriously disappeared.

Detectives Chewning and Norris were assigned to the search for the missing furniture, which has been located in the storeroom of a justice of the peace.

STONE SAYS SUGAR MEN TRIED TO USE ASSOCIATED PRESS

General Manager of Greatest News Gathering Concern in the World Appears Before Senate Lobby Probe

ASSOCIATION WON'T USE PRESS AGENT MATTER

Stone Declares That Clarence Hamlin Wanted to Refute Statement by Arbuckle Relative to Free Sugar

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, testified, at his own request, today before the senate lobby committee, regarding claims contained in some of the correspondence of Clarence S. Hamlin as to publicity beet sugar men had hoped to obtain through the Associated Press.

Hamlin's letters had been read into the committee's record two days ago after having been subpenaed from the files of the United States beet sugar industry.

Before Mr. Stone testified Senator Newlands took the witness chair to make a brief statement concerning the use of his name in some of the correspondence introduced yesterday.

Mr. Stone presented all his letters and records bearing on the demands of the beet sugar interests for publicity through the news association.

He testified that October 12, 1911, John Arbuckle, a sugar refiner, when leaving for Europe, had given out an statement favoring free raw sugar. That inteview was carried by the Associated Press, he said.

On October 15 a short statement given out by Clarence C. Hamlin at Colorado Springs, answering the Arbuckle statement, was also carried by the Associated Press. The Arbuckle statement, he said, contained about 1,000 words; the Hamlin statement about 150 words.

Mr. Hamlin then wrote Mr. Stone asking that the beet sugar interests be given as good treatment as the sugar refiners.

HAMLIN'S REQUEST.

Mr. Hamlin's letter was:

"I am writing as chairman of the United States Beet Sugar industry, an organization which included practically all of the beet sugar interests of this country, and if anything further is necessary to give that what I have to say credit, I would prefer you to any of the papers in Denver as well as to Senator Guggenheim and Senators Clark and Warren, of Wyoming. Also to Mr. Chester W. Morey, of Denver, president of the Great Western Sugar company, the largest beet sugar producer in the United States, with whom you are personally acquainted. I might add I am a member of the Associated Press, representing the Herald-Telegraph of this city.

"Publicity is the last thing I wish to seek personally, but in justice to the great industry which I represent, I feel justified in taking up with you in person a matter which to us is of the gravest importance. On October 12 Mr. John Arbuckle, of Arbuckle Brothers, gave out a statement which was printed in full in every Associated Press newspaper of the United States, concerning the sugar situation. A copy of this statement is attached hereto.

"The matters contained in this statement were of such great importance and some of the misrepresentations so gross that I did not feel that these statements should go unchallenged.

"I took the matter up with the local representatives of the Associated Press who followed it through the or-

"Beavers Seer Beyond His Day; All Nation to Be As Atlanta"

BARRY SUCCEEDS SUTTON AS CHIEF P. O. INSPECTOR

Former Head of Atlanta Division Becomes Chief at Kansas City

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—Robert E. Barry, of Atlanta, today was designated by Postmaster General Burleson chief inspector of the Atlanta division, vice George M. Sutton, who has been transferred to Kansas City as chief inspector.

Barry has been connected with the postoffice department in various capacity for a number of years and has made an excellent record which impressed Mr. Burleson with his fitness.

His idea was that Atlanta is ahead of the age, and that Chief Beavers is a seer who is looking beyond his own day and generation. Under the chief's leadership the speaker said Atlanta is taking the scriptural position and is seeking to destroy wrong instead of segregating it.

"This is bound to come," said Mr. Culbreth, "just as surely as we have seen smallpox and yellow fever eradicated, and it is only a question of time when the whole nation shall be freed from this Babylonian iniquity. Atlanta has shown that is this possible and she has set the pace for the rest of the country. The nation will yet follow the example of this splendid city."

Mr. Culbreth predicted that national prohibition was assured. It may be delayed, but it is certain to come, he said. Under the new order of things, the welfare of the people is the end toward which the government is looking. Rev. Culbreth continuing, said

Rev. Marvin Culbreth Holds Up Atlanta Before League Conference as Model City, Ahead of the Age

BY REV. ALEX W. BEALER.

EASTMAN, Ga., June 19.—Atlanta was held up before the Epworth league conference last night as a prophecy of what the whole nation is to be in the near future. Rev. Marvin Culbreth, of Nashville, Tenn., one of the general secretaries of the league movement, was the prophet who spoke thus words concerning Georgia's capital city.

In a striking address on the subject, "Modern Movements for Social Betterment," he mentioned the city, said that is going on in different places, and said:

"The stand of Atlanta your splendid capital city, has taken on this question is one that is approved by all men who have the best interests of the masses at heart."

Veteran of Eighty Years Objects To Paying Alimony to His Bride

"Uncle Jimmy" Camp of Bachelors' Domain, Demurs to Plea of 36-day Wife, Who Was Sympathetic Widow

A story that might have been torn from a page of Dickens' works was told in superior court Thursday morning when James H. Camp, eighty-year-old Confederate veteran, affectionately known among his cronies at the Bachelors' Domain as "Uncle Jimmy," appeared to oppose the alimony proceedings of the wife of just 36 days.

With Camp at the witness table sat Colonel Jesse N. Smith, of "The House That Jack Built," referred to throughout the trial as "Uncle Jack." Both old men, peering through glasses, took keen interest in the half-comic, half-tragic story of the disastrous marriage details unfolded for the court.

The testimony revealed that "Uncle Jimmy" Camp had married Mrs. Martha Cowart, a widow, of 356 North Boulevard, on March 13, 1913, and that she had left him on April 19, 1913—just 36 days later; owing him some $1,300, he charged.

Mrs. Cowart-Camp told Judge Pendleton that she became interested in "Uncle Jimmy" when he was lying ill at the Bachelors' Domain, and on several occasions she invaded the place and nursed him.

Finally, she said, he proposed marriage, because he wanted her to take him to Hot Springs for treatment. To this she agreed, and they were engaged at Christmastide.

"He treated me so cruelly, cursed me, and everything, that I couldn't live with him any longer," she said. "He bought the home on Norrn Boulevard; said he wanted a home, and invited my son and his wife and my daughter to move in. Then he got mad because they did."

Mrs. Cowart-Camp told the judge that ex-husband had been accustomed to drinking a "dram" with his cronies at the Bachelors' Domain, but she never had seen him under the influence of liquor.

Her testimony revealed the fact that she had borrowed $500 from him before the marriage, and two sums of about $300 during the marriage period, and $500 on the day before she left. All this, she said, she had expected to pay back when she sold some real estate in south Georgia for which she was agent.

Mrs. Camp, who is a middle-aged little woman, not unmodely, has filed suit for total divorce, restoration of her former name and permanent and temporary alimony; but the hearing before Judge Pendleton Thursday was solely on the issue of temporary alimony, and Camp opposed only this feature of the case. No cross bill or denial of her allegations of cruel treatment was filed.

Both sides were represented by an array of counsel. Luther Z. rosser acting for Camp, and Felder, Anderson, Dillon & Whitman, Carl Hutcheson and Little & Powell acting for Mrs. Cowart-Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cowart took the stand and told the court of the "squabbles" at the North Boulevard residence which preceded the separation.

Judge Pendleton granted Mrs. Cowart $25 a month temporary alimony, to be applied as half rental upon the Boulevard house of Mr. Cowart, which Mrs. Cowart now occupies. Mrs. Cowart is required, however, to pay her husband $25, that being the difference between her alimony and the estimated house rental.

R. F. MADDOX REPLIES TO BISHOP W. A. CANDLER

Member of Vanderbilt Board of Trust Defends Carnegie's Gift to University

Robert F. Maddox, former mayor and leadinr Atlanta citizen, and Georgia's representative on the board of trustees of Vanderbilt university, has come to the defense of Andrew Carnegie and his gift to the Vanderbilt medical school.

Mr. Maddox,in an interestin ginten view, giving the history of the Steel King's million dollar donation to the southern educational institution, deplores the criticism that Bishop Warren A. Candler has directed against the philanthropist and against the board of trustees for accepting the gift under the terms, which he has imposed.

Bishop Candler, in an interview in The Journal of Wednesday referred to Mr. Carnegie as an "agnostic steel manager" and to his gift to the university as not so much "a donation as an attempt to debauch a Christian institution."

Bishop Candler went still further in his interview and declared that Mr. Carnegie is dangling the money before the public in hopes that the litigation between the church and the board of trustees, which is now pending before the supreme court of Tennessee, will be settled.

Not only does Mr. Maddox defend the steel magnate and his gift, but he pays tribute to Chancellor J. H. Kirkland, who was largely instrumental in securing the Carnegie donation.

MR. MADDOX'S STATEMENT.

In speaking of the matter Mr. Maddox said:

"I have read with much regret the criticism of Bishop Candler in connection with the magnificent donation to the medical department of Vanderbilt university by that great American citizen and public benefactor, Andrew Carnegie.

"The medical department of Vanderbilt university has for some time been suffering for lack of funds and equipment. Chancellor Kirkland called the attention of the board of trustees at the annual meeting in 1912 to the fact that the medical department was suffering in its management and development for lack of additional improvements and endowment. The financial statement furnished the board of trustees at its annual meeting on last Monday showed that the medical department was operated at a loss of $5,560.

"Chancellor Kirkland is a Christian gentleman, splendidly educated, broad-minded and progressive, and has given to Vanderbilt university the ablest management it has ever enjoyed. Through the influence of his personality and his progressiveness he has induced the Vanderbilt family to subscribe hundreds of thousands of dollars to the university, which have been practically the only donations made to it in recent years. The present living members of the Vanderbilt family who have contributed to the university are all in hearty accord with Chancellor Kirkland, his policy, and the actions of the present board of trustees.

HOW GIFT WAS SECURED.

"Chancellor Kirkland some time ago took up the question of securing from Mr. Carnegie a large donation to the medical department of Vanderbilt university, and after considerable negotiation, finally secured the promise of $200,000 cash and the interest on $800,000 to be paid annually to the universi-

THOMSON PROPOSES THAT COUNCIL AND WOODWARD RESIGN

"Let Us All Get Out and Go Before People in Regular Recall in Fall Primary," Suggests Councilman

MAYOR SAYS CHARTER HAD THIS PROPOSAL

New Charter Would Have Done This, but Council Wouldn't Even Let People Vote on It" Says Woodward

Councilman Albert Thomson, of the Fourth ward, who has had several tart newspaper controversies with Mayor Woodward lately, now comes forward with an entirely new proposition.

He proposes that all of the thirty members of the general council resign, effective January 1, 1914; that the mayor resign, efefective the same date; and that the general council and the mayor then go before the people in the fall primary as candidates for re-election to their respective unexpired terms, or new terms as the case may be.

WHAT THOMSON SAYS. . . .

Discussing his proposition with a Journal reporter, Councilman Thomson said:

"The mayor admits that we need a bond issue, but says he won't support bonds if the money is to be spent by the present council. He says if the people will elect a 'firstclass' council, then he will support bonds.

"The mayor says the present council is no good and ought to be kicked out, thereby leaving the inference that he considers he is firstclass himself and ought to be retained.

"SETTLE THE QUESTION."

"I would like to have the question settled. I would like to let the voters decide which they prefer, the present council or the present mayor.

"In other words, I would like to see council resign and the mayor resign, and all go before the people. If the people are so solidly behind the mayor and so unanimously down on council, as he would have us believe, then they will kick us out and put him back in. But if the people are tired of the mayor's obstructive policies and abusive language, which is barely possible, then they will take him out and send council back.

"The mayor has advocated the recall. Now let's all put the recall on ourselves. I am willing to go on and sign a solmn agreement to abide by my position.

"Of course, in my case my term expires on January 1, anyhow, but I could easily apply the test to myself by announcing as a candidate for re-election. If the Fourth ward wants me, they can send me back for another term. If not, they can send some other man. Thus the proposition can be made to apply all around, both to those whose terms expire on January 1 and to those whose terms are longer.

"CAN BE DONE LEGALLY.

"The resignations can all be drawn up in regular form, to become effective January 1, with the condition that the primary elect that those resigning shall go back and fill their terms, or serve out whatever the council may decide to encourage good men to run against them, so the test can be a real test, and the mayor should encourage some real men to run against him, or else run against him, for the same purpose. It can all be done in a regular and legal way. I have an idea the people would enjoy such a recall election. It would be something entirely new and interesting."

THE MAYOR'S REPLY.

Mayor Woodward was informed of Councilman Thomson's proposition, and in reply he said:

"Well, now, that's a bright idea, isn't it? I made that exact same proposition myself, in the new charter, and council would even let the people vote on it. The new charter provided that everybody—council, the boards, myself and all the rest—should go out on January 1. It proposed to wipe out and start all over again, giving the public a new deal. I was willing to take my chances of coming back.

"Now, as for Councilman Thomson, his term expires on January 1, anyhow, so he's got a lot to lose by such a proposition, hasn't he?

"Why, if the council were to sign an agreement, I wouldn't trust them to carry it out."

A Vacation Help

"How did you ever manage to get so good a bookkeeper to fill your place while you were away last summer for your two months' vacation? I would like to take a month this year, but the boss tells me he cannot spare me for more than ten days, as he can get no one to take my place and he does not want the work to pile up."

"I found it the simplest thing in the world. I just ran a Journal Want Ad once and got eight replies to it, and one of them proved to be just the man I was looking for. He had been out of work for some time and, as he had an invalid mother to look after, he was very anxious to secure even temporary work. He was experienced, too, and did very well while I was away. He is going to work for me again this summer.

STATE TREASURER'S WAGE NEVER HAS BEEN RAISED

Constitution Fixed It at $2,600—Handles Millions—Bankers Foresee Amendment

The Georgia Banking association and the state treasurer will work together this summer for the enactment of legislation with reference to banking laws, and have agreed on a proposed bill which will be introduced at the approaching general assembly.

The legislative committee of the Georgia Banking association met Wednesday in the Capital City club. The executive council met jointly with them. State Treasurer W. J. Speer met with them. The object of the meeting was to consider a program to secure desirable banking legislation during the 1913 session of the general assembly, which convenes next Wednesday.

The banks of the state have labored hard and spent large sums of money for drafting a bill to provide for separation of the banking department from the state treasurer's office. They are both co-ordinate parts of the office at the present time.

The association as a whole, and each one of the five bankers' groups respectively, had approved this bill.

Mr. Speer made this point before the committee Wednesday:

Under the constitution of the state of Georgia, funds available for running the state treasurer's office amount to only $3,600 a year, which is divided into two items, $2,600 salary for the state treasurer, and $1,600 salary for his chief clerk. As a matter of fact, the smallest office force the state treasurer can do business on is six or seven people. So that the passage of the exact bill that the banking association advocates would bankrupt the department. This disability can not be removed by an act of the legislature but only by a constitutional amendment. There is no chance to get a constitutional amendment through immediately.

Therefore, at the present term of the legislature, the bankers will unite with Mr. Speer in asking the legislature to enact a new scale of examination charges, which will provide sufficient money to increase the number of examiners from five to eight, thereby bringing about more effective supervision of the state banks.

In addition to that the state treasurer and banks will request likewise the enactment of certain provisions, giving the state treasurer greater power to enforce his rulings in the discipline and regulation of state banks. Furthermore, the banks and state treasurer will direct all their efforts toward securing the constitutional amendment which will give the state treasurer adequate funds in conducting this office, and which will at the same time provide the means of conducting a separate and more effective department of banking.

As an argument for this proposed legislation, the bankers cite the fact that the salary of the state treasurer is right now the same as when the office was created; and the present state treasurer handled, through his office last year between six and seven million dollars. Further, the number of banks has increased to about five times their number of seven years ago.

ATLANTA WOMEN PROTEST THE CLAPP AMENDMENT

They Write to Senators to Save Wild Birds Which Clause Would Kill

Led by the women of Atlanta, Georgia's female population is up in arms to kill the amendment offered to the tariff bill by Senator Clapp, of Minnesota, which, they say, will mean the extermination of many of the world's most beautiful wild birds.

They are co-operating with others all over the United States who are interested in the preservation of the birds. The clause in the tariff which the women support prohibits the importation of the feathers and plumes of practically all wild birds. Senator Clapp's amendment provides that this clause shall not refer to the feathers or plumes of same birds usually killed for food purposes or as pests.

Believing that this change was inspired by the milliners, and that it would mean the continued slaughter of about one hundred species of birds which they are striving to protect, William T. Hornady, of the New York Zoological society, and others, have sent circular letters to prominent women in Georgia asking them to write to senators for their support against the Clapp amendment.

Miss Nina Hornady, of 65 East Linden street, president for Georgia of the National Society U. S. Q. of 1812, received a personal telegram from Mr. Hornady asking her to protest vigorously to all senators.

In response to the plea, telegrams were sent Wednesday to Senator Hoke Smith, who is a member of the committee of finance of the senate, from hundreds of women all over Georgia, asking him to vote against the amendment and to use his influence against it.

Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, as official head of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and Mrs. John A. Perdue, regent of Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., sent telegrams. Mrs. William Lawson Peel, honorary regent for life of Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., and vice president of the National Society of D. A. R., wrote to the senator. Mrs. Clifford L. Anderson, former president of the Federated Georgia Women's clubs, also is very active in protesting against the amendment.

EMPRESS IS TOO TIRED TO WITNESS CEREMONIES

BERLIN, June 19.—The Empress Augusta Victoria was too tired to participate in today's celebration of the completion of the twenty-fifth year of her husband's reign.

The grand events of the last few days, following the wedding of her only daughter, proved too much for her strength and she was forced to leave the imperial box at the opera in the middle of last evening's performance. The crown princess will represent her majesty at tonight's state dinner.

Today's celebration was again favored by splendid weather. It opened with a parade organized by the trades unions.

The streets appeared to be even more crowded today than yesterday, the spectators taking great interest in the workmen's parade, the state processions of the German rulers to the castle and tonight's torchlight processions of students of Berlin university.

RECOVERED FROM SEVERE LUNG TROUBLE

Plenty of fresh air and good food are necessary to persons suffering from lung trouble, but something more is needed to bring about full health. Eckman's Alterative is a medicine for throat and lung troubles, and so many reports have been received showing that it brought about good results in a number of cases which were considered hopeless, that all sufferers who are not benefiting otherwise should at least investigate what it has done for others. Investigate this case:

Madison Lake, Minn.

"Gentlemen: In December, 1908, March, 1909, and September, 1909, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs which confined me several weeks each time to my bed. My doctor advised me to go West.

"In November I started for Denver, Colo. After my arrival I met Michael Brody, who, upon learning of my condition, urged me to take Eckman's Alterative. In about two months I began to feel better. I kept on taking the medicine and improved fast. In March, 1910, I returned home. I think I am entirely well, have a good appetite and sleep well. When I left Denver my weight was 130 pounds. I now weigh 165, my normal weight. I thank God and your Alterative for my health."

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by Jacobs' Pharmacy and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.—(Advt.)

Atlanta Meeting Thursday Evening Will Discuss State Convention on New Plans

Whether a state convention shall be called to discuss the question of the lease of the Western and Atlantic railroad will be debated Thursday evening by the members of the chamber of commerce at a meeting in Taft hall at 8 o'clock.

The Western and Atlantic railroad now brings the state under lease to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, $420,912 a year. It seems to be generally agreed that the property can be made to pay Georgia under a new arrangement at least $800,000, if not more.

It is considered almost imperative that the legislature which is about to meet shall deal explicitly with the future of this important state problem, because it is believed that Georgia would lose materially should the state wait until nearly time for the expiration of the lease before taking action.

Business interests all over the state are beginning to feel and understand the importance of the best possible disposition of this property when the present lease expires. Not only does it mean much to the state in a financial way, but it is also considered important that the road shall fall into hands which will be friendly to Georgia in the matter of freight rates.

It is believed that the property will bring the state an income in the future twice as large as that now received from it, largely because of the valuable Chattanooga real estate which may be improved and rented separately and independently from the railroad.

It is expected that both Governor Joseph M. Brown and Governor-elect John M. Slaton will occupy seats on the stage Thursday evening.

The meeting was called some time ago by W. A. Wimbish, chairman of the Western and Atlantic committee, and elaborate preparations have been made to secure a full attendance. No effort will be made to solve the problem of the lease, but the gathering is merely to determine the advisability of calling a convention.

Speakers who see the matter from different angles will be heard in short addresses. They are Governor Joseph M. Brown, W. A. Wimbish, Hooper Alexander, James R. Gray and Chairman C. Murphey Candler of the railroad commission.

FORT M'PHERSON TO USE ATLANTA'S CITY WATER

Uncle Sam Finds It Is the Best and Will Abandon Wells Which Supply Fort

Uncle Sam has officially decided that Atlanta city water is the best to be had in or around Atlanta, and accordingly has made arrangements to abandon the wells that now supply Ft. McPherson and use water from the city mains instead.

The arrangements were made Wednesday by army officers from the fort and the water board at a meeting of the latter. The cost of connecting the pipes at the fort with the city main will be something over $1,000. The city will do the work and will be reimbursed by the government.

Ft. McPherson has been getting its water from big wells. It is good as well water goes, but not so good as the Atlanta city water, as proven by careful tests and analysis.

The waterworks system of the fort is complete already, so that it will only be necessary to connect with a city main which runs past the fort entrance.

Booklovers, Important Notice!

Submit your sets of Answers right. If you use an Answer Book, or if you use only pictures and coupons. Observe the following Directions.

Those Who Have Answer Books

It is not necessary to retain number at top of picture, but it is all right to do so.

Write down your titles in pen, pencil or in any other way, opposite the pictures.

Be sure your name and address is written on each page, so that if a page should fall out while checking, it could be identified and replaced.

Wrap up the Answer Book carefully and paste on the outside of the package the address blank which will be printed in The Journal on Sunday, July 13th, and thereafter until Saturday, July 19th.

Those Who Do Not Use Answer Book

Cut the pictures out along the dotted lines.

You must use a separate picture and coupon for each answer you submit. Keep the like pictures together. If you have made three answers to picture No. 1, start your set with the three copies of picture No. 1. If you have made four answers to picture No. 2, have these four copies of picture No. 2 come next. And so on for all the pictures.

Fasten your set together at the top in some way—any way you please. Run a string through the tops of the pictures, paste the tops of the pictures together, or fasten them in any other way you choose.

Lay your set out flat and wrap it flat. Do not fold or roll it. Better put a piece of cardboard along one side of the set to hold it flat.

Wrap the set carefully and paste on the outside of the package the address blank that will be printed in The Journal Sunday, July 13th, and thereafter until Saturday, July 19th.

You can write your answers to the pictures in pen, pencil, by typewriter, or in any other way you please.

I WAS BADLY BLOATED

I Could Not Get My Shoes on, My Feet and Legs were so Swollen.

Mrs. Jennie Randall, R. F. D., Enfield, Mass.

Dropsy is usually caused by organic disease. It may be the heart, or liver, or kidneys. Sometimes the lungs. But there is a form of dropsy that is caused by thin blood. The serum of the blood exudes into the tissues, causing dropsy. It is a very serious condition sometimes, but there is much more prospect of relief, since there is no organic disease behind it. The blood is thin for want of proper assimilation of food. The digestion may be poor. In these cases Peruna is a very excellent remedy.

Read what Mrs. Randall says:

"I have been a sufferer from Bright's disease nearly six years, also chronic catarrh for a much longer time. One doctor said there was no help for me.

"Then I wrote the Peruna Medical Department. My body was badly bloated and my feet were so swollen and sore I could not get my shoes on. Now the swelling is gone and I can wear my shoes with comfort all the time. At the time I first wrote them, when I stepped on my feet it felt as if there were pins piercing the instep of them. I suffered excruciating pain and ache in my back and limbs. Since taking Peruna and Manalin I have been greatly benefited. I shall not cease to recommend Peruna whenever I have an opportunity."

People who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

YOU DO NOT HAVE TO BE A BOOK EXPERT TO WIN.

A lady called at Campaign Headquarters yesterday to secure an Answer Book for a friend, saying that while she has taken The Journal for years, she has taken no part in this or last year's Booklovers' Campaigns, for the reason that she does not know books well enough to win. We explained the plan thoroughly to her, a book and each part of the story, and that she could secure all these titles out of The Journal's Catalogue and would have the right to ten answers on each picture. That lady left Campaign Headquarters with all the pictures up to date, the catalogue and answer book for herself as well as for her friend, and declared that It is easy and simple, so easy and simple that any bright boy or girl can win if they will devote the necessary time to select correct titles. The Booklovers' game is the greatest home game ever offered newspaper readers and will bring big prizes to those who will exercise all their rights. If there are any other Journal readers who lack confidence in their ability as that lady did, we hope they will come in and get a catalogue and all the pictures and see for themselves what an easy, interesting game The Journal is now offering them.

Use the coupons if you live out of town.

LEADERS ASSIGNED TO WORK FOR CORN SHOW

President Moore of Commerce Chamber Names Committees to Raise Fund

Following the luncheon at the Majestic hotel, Wednesday, at which some fifty leading business men of Atlanta were gathered to discuss the extension of the boys' club work in Georgia, President Wilmer L. Moore, of the Atlanta chamber of commerce, has announced the committee to solicit subscriptions to the chamber of commerce fund for the expenses of the 1913 Georgia corn show.

H. G. Hastings, chairman of the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce, made the announcement that in the event $7,500 is raised for this year's corn show, he will contribute $750, or one-tenth of the amount. Heretofore Mr. Hastings has contributed $500 a year.

W. J. Lowenstein, of the Norris company, voluntarily sent in a subscription of $100, along with suggestions that the chamber should offer three cash prizes for the three largest yields of corn to the acre.

Strong letters with promises of cooperation have been sent to the committe by A. C. Fisher, division manager for the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company; W. G. Manley, president of the Bankers' Trust company; E. P. McBurney, president of the Empire Cotton Oil company; W. A. Stentz, manager of the John Deer Plow company; E. K. Ward, president of the Bombayreed company, and others.

Mr. Hastings brought forward facts to emphasize further his assertion that Georgia pays more for imported food each year than she gets for her cotton crop.

Mr. Holleman said that Georgai farmers have lost the knack of raising food products and animals.

GA. COMMERCE BODY WILL BE DISCUSSED

Meeting Friday Will Call Statewide Convention to Debate and Adopt Big Plans

For the purpose of laying definite plans for the organization of a Georgia chamber of commerce, the state-wide committee of the Atlanta chamber of commerce will meet in the Empire building Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Charles J. Haden is chairman of the committee.

An effort will be made to interest every Georgia town in the project, and to accomplish this end a general gathering of representatives of every trade body in the state, as well as delegates from counties where no such organizations exist, will be called to meet some time during the month of July.

Chairman Haden has prepared a basis of organidation, and this will be presented to the committee for its consideration. The movement has no local significance, but rather is purely a state movement, and one whose success depends upon the approval of commercial, industrial and business Georgia.

This movement was begun over two months ago. The proposition will be submitted to the state at large.

The state-wide meeting will be called, and the date decided upon definitely at the meeting Friday.

INJURED BY CAR WHILE HUNTING HAT, SAYS SUIT

Dr. Y. R. Coleman, of College Park, brought suit for $10,000 damages against the Georgia Railway and Power company Thursday for injuries said to have been received by being knocked down by an incoming East Point street car while he was looking for his hat which had blown off the outgoing car.

Dr. Coleman told the court that he was groping around in the dark for his hat unaware of the fact that the car line was double tracked, when an incoming car running at high speed struck him and knocked him from the track. He suffered several broken bones, he asserted, and a shock to his nervous system from which he has not recovered.

STONE SAYS SUGAR MEN TRIED TO USE ASSOCIATED PRESS

dinary channels and was assured that the Associated Press would handle six hundred and fifty words representing the best sugar men's position upon these questions. This statement I prepared and you will find a copy hereto attached. This is from the Denver Republican, the Colorado papers having handled it in full. The manner in which it was handled will be disclosed by the attached clipping from the Washington Herald.

"Of course, I understand the Associated Press is in no sense partisan and aims to be wholly fair to all of the great interests of the country, and all that the best sugar interests ask is that they receive the same treatment at the hands of your association as is accorded to certain interests in New York who are pushing the free sugar propaganda with the avowed purpose of at least putting a stop to the growth of the beet sugar industry.

"We certainly have no desire to burden the Associated Press with matter put out for the purpose of 'boosting' our industry, but when attacked, feel that we should be given as much publicity as is given to our opponents. At least we would like to know what our status is so far as your association is concerned. Of course, there may be something in the character of the statement given out by me which would prevent its acceptance in full, and if so you will be doing me a distinct favor by advising me in what respect this is true.

"Trusting you will give this serious personal consideration, and thanking you in advance for anything you may be able to do in the direction of according justice to so large an industry, I am,

"Very truly yours,

"C. O. HAMLIN."

Mr. Stone said that the local correspondent of the Associated Press at Colorado Springs had no authority to make any agreement that the Associated Press would carry any statement.

"I do not know who was the correspondent at Colorado Springs," Mr. Stone added. "He may have been an employee of Mr. Hamlin's paper for all I know."

In answer to Mr. Hamlin's letter, Mr. Stone wrote October 23, 1911:

"I have your letter of October 19, and note contents. I can well understand how you feel in respect to the matter. It is certainly my desire that the Associated Press should be just and impartial of the treatment of every matter reported by it.

"The Arbuckle statement was carried, not because it was a statement of a sugar refiner, but because its bearing on the general cost of living which, as you know, has been the subject of keen interest in the United States. With the advance in the prices of sugar, coffee and other necessaries, there necessarily has been much feeling on the general subject.

"When your statement in answer to Mr. Arbuckle was presented, it happened to be a very busy day and night.

"The president of the United States was at San Francisco, the plans for Justice Harlan's funeral were on, the McNamara trial was before the country, the world's series of baseball games was in progress, the political situation in China existed and there was an acute political situation in Mexico.

"All of these things crowded our one wire leased from Kansas City to San Francisco, and I suppose our Denver office was forced to abbreviate your statement. I am writing to the chief of our office there asking him for an explanation regarding the matter, but I can well anticipate that this is what he would say.

"I fancy the matter will come up before Congress, and then I trust we shall be able to give you as good a hearing as those who are contending on the other side.

"Sincerely yours,

"MELVILLE E. STONE."

"I did not know Mr. Hamlin," added Mr. Stone. "The statement that he was a member of the Associated Press is true, but in meeting the 800 members of the Associated Press I do not happen to remember him and I have met him but once in my life. I would not know him if he were in this room at this moment.

"The statement in respect to the local correspondent of the Associated Press at Colorado Springs having offered to handle for the Associated Press 650 words, I should explain in this way. The local correspondent has no power whatever to commit the Associated Press to any policy or to any agreement of this sort. His entire duty and his entire responsibility and ability in respect to the matter was to send any dispatch he might have to our Denver office and there it would fall into the hands of a salaried correspondent and he would determine how much should be used.

"The local correspondent had no authority to commit it and, indeed, though I don't know who he was, he may have been an employe of Mr. Hamlin's own paper."

Mr. Stone gave the committee a copy of the letter he wrote to C. D. Hagerty, in charge of the Denver office of the Associated Press, October 25, asked for information as to the handling of the Hamlin statement and concluded:

"Personally, I am inclined to discourage carrying long statements of a controversial nature but inasmuch as we carried Mr. Arbuckle's statement rather fully, my judgment is that we might have handled a little more of Mr. Hamlin's provided it was prepared as briefly as our story here indicates."

A reply from Mr. Hagerty stated that 800 words of the Hamlin statement had come into the Denver office over the wire from Colorado Springs, but that, owing to the crowded condition of the Associated Press wires only 200 had been sent east and sixty-one words were cut out of the dispatch at relay points before it reached New York.

Mr. Hamlin then wrote Mr. Stone October 27, 1911:

"Permit me to thank you for your kind favor of the 23d instant and to express my appreciation of your position in the matter. I can readily understand how the situation arose and, of course, know the Associated Press desires to do full justice to all interests with entire impartiality. There is to be a meeting of the beet sugar interests in Chicago on November 15, at which time a statement will probably be issued concerning this industry and the reasons for the present high price of sugar. I trust it will be such a one as your association will be able to handle."

Mr. Stone's reply to that, dated October 30, 1911, read:

"I have yours of October 27. I am notifying our Chicago office that if the statement to be issued on November 15 comes at all within the scope of our wires, to handle it."

Mr. Stone at the same time wrote to John F. Gavit, then superintendent of the central division of the Associated Press at Chicago:

"There is to be a meeting of the beet sugar interests in Chicago on November 15 at which a statement probably will be issued concerning the industry and the reasons given for the present high price of sugar. On October 15 we carried from New York a statement from John Arbuckle on this subject and I suppose that the one from Chicago will be in some sense an answer which I think in justice we ought to carry. I personally did not know anything about carrying Mr. Arbuckle's statement not was I familiar with the contest between the beet interests and the cane sugar interests.

"Please use your judgment respecting the beet sugar statement and handle it upon its news merits."

Mr. Hamlin's reply to Mr. Stone's brief letter of October 30, was dated November 6, 1911.

Hamlin wrote he proposed to submit any statement prepared in Chicago to the Associated Press officials and expressed the opinion because much of it was in the nature of "expert evidence," it might be a character that would not be admissible before the Hardwick committee in Washington.

Copies of all the dispatches carried from Chicago by the Associated Press at the time of the conference of the beet sugar interests were also furnished to the committee by Mr. Stone with a letter from Hamlin thanking him for the accuracy of the Associated Press reports.

Mr. Hamlin's letter of November 6 was dated at Washington. Mr. Stone said his recollection was that Hamlin had called at the New York offices of the Associated Press just prior to that time and had been interviewed.

"I saw him for a few minutes," said Mr. Stone, "and my memory is very clear that I said to him, 'you will have an opportunity before congress, and as we represent all of these hearings before congress, any statement that you may desire to make will be reported there.'"

Mr. Stone testified that Mr. Hamlin's reference to fact that the proposed statement might not be made before the Hardwick committee was evidently in reply to that suggestion.

The committee did not question Mr. Stone today, but Chairman Overman asked him to hold himself in readiness to appear before the committee later, if they desired.

"I am frequently more or less amused," Mr. Stone told the committee, "at the popular notion in respect to matters of this sort, and, perhaps, I may in fairness say that both as to the Associated Press and as to all press associations and as to newspapers, I am frequently impressed that injustice is done by the refusal to grant the wishes of applicants for publicity.

"Whenever a man comes into a newspaper office or into an Associated Press office and asks for publication of anything, he is met with a degree of suspicion.

"They all think he has some axe to grand and he has a very poor show of securing justice. We have a rule in our service that has been in existence for many years, that no publicity agent can give us anything. We will not accept anything from him.

"As an illustration of what I have said, a number of railroads have publicity agents, and the rule is absolute that the publicity agents cannot furnish us anything. We will not accept anything from them."

Mr. Stone agreed to furnish the committee with the rules and by-laws of the Associated Press and with all information about the origin of the Arbuckle statement on sugar in 1911, out of which the correspondence now before the committee developed.

Senator Newlands' statement concerned references in one of Henry T. Oxnard's letters made public yesterday, that Oxnard was trying to have Newlands put on the state Philippine committee in 1907.

"I have observed with amazement," said Mr. Newlands, "the reference to my name and that of Senator Teller. I wish to state most emphatically that my application to go on the Philippine commission in 1907 was not suggested or influenced by Mr. Oxnard. I had been in the Philippines with the Taft party in 1906 and came back with pronounced views regarding the Philippine policy. A Democratic caucus placed me on the Philippine committee in 1907."

Frank C. Lowry, a leader of the free sugar campaign, was recalled to be questioned about the wholesale grocers' committee. Lowry could not produce any files of circulars issued by the "committee" and telegrams pressing others to urge free sugar on members of congress.

One telegram to Secretary Tubbs, of the American Society of Equity, at Madison, Wis., urged him to telegraph Representative Underwood for a reduction of duty on sugar.

"Don't you recall that a lobby" asked Senator Cummins.

"Not a lobby at all—that's the direct primary idea," returned Lowry."

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 1908 TO HOLD BANQUET

The fifth annual banquet of the 1908 class of the Boys' High school will take place at Cafe Durand on Friday evening, June 27. Out of a class of nearly fifty boys, it is expected that forty will be present.

The committee in charge is composed of George Osborne, Wills Milner, Paul Carpenter and H. G. Bedinger. All those who expect to attend are asked to see a member of this committee or one of the class officers, who are H. G. Bedinger, president; Milner LaHatte, vice president, and William Candler, secretary and treasurer.

all that produces sickness and want will be taken in hand and, as far as possible, suppressed by the federal government. It had put down contagious diseases, and that great evil, booze, dreadful than all the others, is sure to follow in their train, since it threatens the welfare of the people, he declared.

Rev. Harry Bardwell, of Havana, Cuba, was on the program for a stereopticon lecture, but a message was received saying that the hour he was to be in Eastman he was in a hospital in Macon preparing for a surgical operation. The prayers of the delegates were asked for his recovery.

The sunrise prayer meetings have been well attended and much genuine religious fervor has there been manifested, many fervent prayers being offered and many old-time camp-meeting songs being sung.

Wednesday afternoon was spent in conducting department institutes and discussing the best plans for financing the league.

After the adjournment the delegates were treated to a concert in the city park by the Eastman brass band, and then they were given an automobile drive over the various points of interest about Eastman.

Miss Lillian Nichols, missionary to Korea, addressed the conference this morning on the need for more workers in Korean fields. Twenty young people came to the altar and there offered themselves for the work.

A message of greetig was received from the Baptist Young People's convention in Macon in response to one sent them yesterday. Reports from different officers were received showing that much had been done during the year in Bible study in the mission world among the poor in social service in mill districts.

ty—the disposition of the principal of this sum to be decided later.

Present at the meeting of the board Monday, June 16, were the following gentlemen: Judge W. C. Ratcliffe, Little Rock, Ark., president; Whitefoord R. Cole, Asheville, secretary; Chancellor J. H. Kirkland, G. B. Winton, Nathaniel Baxter, E. B. Chappell, J. W. Thomas, A. B. Ransom, Nashville; Robt. F. Maddox, Atlanta; C. W. Byrd, Asheville; Charles N. Burch, Memphis; Eugene J. Buffington, Chicago; Frank C. Rand, St. Louis; John R. Pepper, Memphis; Wm. J. Young, Danville; Elliott H. Jones, Kansas City; J. R. Bingham, Carrollton, Miss.; Allen R. Carter, Louisville; Maj. R. W. Millsaps, Jackson, Miss; Joseph E. Washington, Cedar Hill, Tenn.

The board of trustees felt very much gratified at the success of Chancellor Kirkland's efforts in securing this splendid donation, and passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, By the board of trust of Vanderbilt university, sitting in annual session this 16th day of June, 1913:

"First, That the sincere thanks of this board are due and are hereby tendered to Andrew Carnegie, Esq., of New York, for his generous proposition to provide for the work of the medical department. We appreciate the broad spirit of patriotism and philanthropy that has prompted the gift; we accept the same with gratitude, and in administering it we shall ever keep in mind the purpose of the benefactor to make this donation a blessing to the south and a service to the whole country.

"Second. That we accept fully and unreservedly the suggestions for the administration of the medical school made in the application of the executive committee for this gift and we agree to conduct that department in full accord both with the spirit and the letter of these conditions.

"Third. That the president of the Carnegie Foundation, Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, be and he is hereby elected a member of this governing board of the medical school."

Those who are acquainted with the facts in connection with the Vanderbilt law suit which is now pending in the supreme court of Tennessee are familiar with the personal dislike which Bishop Hoss and some of his associates have for Dr. Kirkland and his progressive methods.

BOARD BEHIND CHANCELLOR.

"Dr. Kirkland's position is heartily endorsed by practically the entire board of trustees, some of whom have been on the board for the last quarter of a century. Nearly all of the trustees are members of the Methodist church and are perfectly familiar with the history of the university.

I walked away from the board meeting with one of the most highly respected citizens of Tennessee, who told me that he knew the campus when it was a corn field. He saw the foundation of the university laid, and the board meeting which just adjourned was the twenty-fifth annual meeting he had attended. He is prominent in the Methodist church, and stated that he believed the donation just received from Mr. Carnegie of two million dollars to the medical department of Vanderbilt university was the best thing that had happened to the university since Commodore Vanderbilt made his original subscription of $500,000.

"I believe that the board of trustees of Vanderbilt university, as a whole, are as high-class gentlemen as can be found in the south, and they would do nothing which would not be to the interest of the university and the betterment of the south's foremost educational institution."

The condition of Dr. Carnegie's donation was that the medical department of Vanderbilt university should be managed by a board of seven, who should be selected solely for their fitness. The selection of this board was left entirely to the board of trustees of the university, and I am sure that the selection of the following well-known gentlemen will assure the public that there is no danger that the medical department of Vanderbilt university will not continue its operation on a broader and better basis or that Christianity will suffer by reason of their management.

Dr. H. Kirkland (Nashville), chairman; Whiteford R. Cole (Nashville), Dr. Henry S. Pritchett (New York), president of the Carnegie foundation; Dr. Edwin O. Jordan, professor of bacteriology, University of Chicago; Dr. William H. Howell, dean of the medical department, Johns Hopkins university; ex-Congressman John W. Thomas (Nashville), president of Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway.

"I am sorry that my friend Bishop Candler has referred to Mr. Carnegie and his recent benefaction in such an uncomplimentary manner. Mr. Carnegie's donations of libraries throughout the United States and his contributions to education and charitable institutions throughout this republic should cause us to appreciate the man and his generosity, and now that he has turned his attention again to helping the south, whose people have not yet amassed fortunes sufficient to enable them to make large contributions to our southern institutions, which are all so badly in need of funds, it is to be hoped that nothing will occur to cause him to regret his action or prevent other philanthropists from assisting the south in the educational development of her sons and daughters.

Protests to Gift Are Puerile, Says Kirkland

By Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 19.—In a statement issued last night Chancellor J. H. Kirkland replies to the protest of the four members of the Vanderbilt university board of trust over the Carnegie gift to the medical department.

He says all the objections offered turn on the assumption that the board of trust is to turn over the medical department to an "independent board," a sufficient answer to which is the regulations for the medical department adopted by the board of trust; the election of members of the governing board and their removal for cause by the board of trust; records of the medical department to be accessible to the board of trust; the actions of the governing board to be subject to ratification by the board of trust.

"Even from the point of view of the Methodist church," says Dr. Kirkland, "there can be no ground for the rejection of the money or the plan. Vanderbilt university has everything to gain by it and nothing to lose.

"If the university is to be controlled by the church, it will be much better off with a first class medical school than without. Certainly Nashville and the south generally can hardly be expected to relish the refusal of a great donation on grounds so puerile."

UP TO PASSENGERS TO PASS ON SCHEDULES

Southern Has Changed Time of Leaving Atlanta on Fort Valley Branch

Whether there shall be a change in the schedule of one of the two daily passenger trains running between Atlanta and Fort Valley, on the Atlanta and Florida branch of the Southern railway, will be determined at a hearing before the state railroad commission on Wednesday, June 25.

About two years ago the commission ordered a double daily service on this line. Recently the road filed a petition with the commission in which it asked the right to discontinue one of these trains on the grounds that it had proved unprofitable.

The commission did not approve this petition, but did suggest to the railroad that a more convenient schedule be provided for the train which leaves Atlanta at 5:30 a. m. and arrives at Fort Valley at 9:25 a. m., and which on its return trip leaves Fort Valley at 6:15 p. m. and arrives in Atlanta at 10 p. m.

This suggestion was accepted in good faith by the road which now proposes to have this train leave Atlanta at 7 a. m., arrive at Fort Valley at 11:15 a. m., and returning leave Fort Valley at 4 p. m. and arrive in Atlanta at 8:35 p. m.

If the patrons of the road have any objections to urge against the change they should file them before the hearing.

This official declares that a number of creditors of Mrs. Fonnabe, including her grocer, brought suit in his court with the result that an attachment was issued and the furniture levied upon and brought to the court.

TWENTY WITNESSES.

Chief of Detectives Lanford states that about twenty witnesses will be subpenaed by the state for the Frank trial, and he gives it as his opinion that not more than four days of the court's time will be consumed in the taking of testimony on both sides.

The detective head is of the opinion that the case will come to trial definitely on June 30.

The detective chief adds his opinion that it would be an unwise move in many ways for the defense of Frank to effect a postponement of the case.

Attorneys throughout the city have expressed unusual interest in The Journal's exclusive story telling that very probably Reuben R. Arnold will be associated with Luther Z. Rosser in the defense of Frank.

The combination of these two lawyers against Solicitor Dorsey and Frank A. Hooper will insure a great battle which would be of great interest even if the case on trial itself were not so notorious.

Mr. Arnold is not associated with the defense as yet, it is said, but it is known that efforts are being made to induce him to enter the case in defense of Frank.

MILITIA MOBILIZING FOR GETTYSBURG ANNIVERSARY

Practically Every Branch of the Regular Militia Will Be Represented

(By Associated Press.)

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 19.—Practically every branch of the regular military service will be represented by bodies of enlisted men at the battle of Gettysburg anniversary celebration next month, according to an announcement here yesterday.

Next week the troops will arrive and take their places in the camp, many of them marching to Gettysburg. The infantry army will be represented by the first and third battalions of the fifth. The third battalion has been doing guard duty in camp for four weeks. The first battalion will come by rail next Tuesday, bringing the regimental band.

A battalion of engineers will march to Gettysburg and are expected to arrive on Saturday, June 28. Battery D, third field artillery, Captain M. E. Locke, commanding, will march also, and are due at camp on Friday of next week.

Several troops of the fifteenth cavalry have been detailed for the Gettysburg camp, though the date for their arrival has not been set. The signal corps is already here and is establishing a complete telephone system throughout the camp, while the large field hospital is well under way at the hands of a detail.

These troops are expected to figure prominently in the exercises of the anniversary and will remain at Gettysburg for six weeks afterwards to participate in the maneuvers at the camp of college and university students to be conducted by war department officers. The college boys will live in a portion of the veterans' camp, which will be allowed to remain standing for them.

PACKING CO. CHARGED WITH VIOLATING LAW

Alleged Violation of Pure Food Laws Will Be Investigated by Solicitor

After a formal hearing Thursday morning Agricultural Commissioner J. Conner decided to recommend to the solicitor general of Sumter county that the Swift Packing company be indicted and tried for a violation of the state's food laws.

State Veterinarian P. F. Bahnsen, acting in conjunction with the pure food inspection department, charged that on June 7 the Americus branch of the Swift Packing company had on hand and was offering for sale 360 pounds of mutton which was decayed and putrified.

It is also charged that on May 26 the pure food inspectors condemned 660 pounds of beef at the Americus branch of the Swift company.

At the hearing before Commissioner Conner Thursday morning the company was represented by J. L. Brice, manager of the Americus branch, and Mr. Leverette, the state representative for the company.

OFFICERS SUSPECT MAN OF ROBBING HEAD NURSE

Chief of Detectives Newport A. Lanford declared Thursday morning that the suspicions of his men who are working on the case of the head nurse, Miss E. O. Skelton, who was chloroformed and robbed in the Red Cross hospital, 88 Cooper street, Tuesday night, are turned toward a man employee who was familiar with the hospital and its surroundings.

The small footprints which were discovered on the porch outside Miss Skelton's room are believed to have been made by the grocery boy on the afternoon before the robbery was committed. Detectives now do not attach much importance to them.

No arrests have been made.

DAIRYMEN AND DOCTORS PLAN CERTIFIED MILK

Rules Drawn by Milk Commission of Medical Society Will Be Adopted

The Atlanta Dairymen's association, at a meeting in the auditorium Wednesday, practically agreed to the pure milk rules formulated by the milk commission of the Fulton County Medical society, and thereby took a long strode toward the protection of the public health.

It is not planned to enforce the rules by law, but simply by means of a contract of honor voluntarily entered into by the dairymen themselves. In return for the fulfillment of this contract, the medical commission officially will put the stamp of its approval on all milk handled by those dairymen, and this will be known as certified milk.

In order to achieve the best results, however, the dairymen must have the cooperation of the public, and to this end a campaign of education will be conducted. There will be cards of instruction as to the proper care of milk in the homes, and the milk commission will carry on the work through lectures, circulars and newspaper publicity.

As a result of the meeting Wednesday, two bills probably will go before the legislature.

One will be a bill to legalize certified milk, not by enforcement of the commission's rules, but by adding the stamp of the state's approval of the milk commission.

Another will be a bill for the state to reimburse dairymen for cows killed on account of tuberculosis.

LABOR LEADERS FAVOR SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN

In an address before the meeting of the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association Wednesday afternoon at the Carnegie library, President S. B. Marks, of the Georgia Federation of Labor, pledged the support of his organization to the cause of woman's suffrage. He was followed by Louis P. Marquardt, chairman of the organization committee of the Atlanta federation, who promised the support of the local body.

The meeting was probably the most enthusiastic and successful suffrage meeting yet held in Atlanta. Addresses were made by both men and women. Mrs. A. R. Woodall presided.

I. L. Gillett, Mrs. Mary McLendon, Mrs. Margaret McWhorter, Leonard Grossman, and others made stirring addresses advocating votes for women.

SKEETERS AND MALARIA ARE PARTNERS TOGETHER

State Board of Health Warns Everybody Against Mosquitoes Like These

Malaria was recognized as a distinct disease about 500 years before Christ. The relation between marshes and malaria was recognized by Empedocles (500 B. C.), and he is said to have stopped an epidemic by draining stagnant pools. Hippocrates, another Greek physician, divided it into the forms we recognize today. It was not until 1880, however, that the parasite which causes the disease was discovered by a French army surgeon named Laveran. And, in 1898, was it proven beyond a doubt by Ross, of England, that these parasites are carried from man to man by a certain type of mosquito which was shown by Grassi to be the kind known as the anopheles; thus the missing link between stagnant water and malaria was demonstrated.

Discovery of the part the mosquito plays in the transmission of the disease is the most brilliant triumph of modern medicine, and one of the most creditable achievements of human ingenuity. This discovery is not a theory, but it is a fact which has been demonstrated in every detail beyond dispute, and we are now happily in a condition to reject our venerable theories concerning bad air, miasma and so on.

THE MOSQUITO HIMSELF.

Before describing the method by which infection takes place it is well to say a few words concerning the mosquito that acts as a carrier of the disease, which may be easily differentiated from other similar gnats. The malarial mosquito has a body which is placed parallel to and almost on the same plane with the front portions of the insect, and as a consequence, when at rest on walls or other objects, the back portion sticks out almost or quite at right angles with the surface upon which it is resting. The back portion of the common mosquito forms an angle with the front part of the mosquito's body, with the effect that both ends of the mosquito point toward the object upon which it rests. There are still other differences that clearly differentiate the malarial from the common mosquito, but the one given ordinarily serves to distinguish between them.

The malarial mosquito is pre-eminently a house gnat, being scarcely ever seen in the woods or open, but may be found—oftentimes in great numbers—in all malarial localities, lying quietly during the day in dark corners of rooms or stables. This mosquito practically never bites in the day, but will do so in a darkened room, if a person will remain perfectly quiet. Their favorite time for feeding is in the early parts of the night and about daybreak—all of which accounts for the fact long observed that malarial fever is almost invariably contracted at night. The malarial mosquito bites and then goes back to some dark corner, *where it remains quiescent for forty-*eight hours, at the end of which time it again descends to feed.

THEY LIVE FOR MONTHS.

Contrary to the general opinion, mosquitoes bite many times, and frequently remain alive for months—the malarial mosquito particularly living in cellars and attics oftentimes throughout the entire winter.

If one of the mosquitoes bites a person with malaria, the parasites are sucked in along with the blood and pass into the stomach of the gnat, making their way ultimately into the body substance, here the parasites undergo a series of multiplications, a single one of them sometimes producing as many as ten thousand young malarial parasites. After the parasites have developed fully, which requires eight days in warm weather, they make their way to the venom gland of the mosquito and there remain until it bites, when they are injected into the body of the individual attacked along with the poison. After getting into the human blood, each parasite attacks a red blood cell, bores into it, and grows at the expense of the cell until it reaches maturity, at which time it divides up into from seven to twenty-five young parasites which are liberated and each in turn attacks a new cell. This process goes on until a sufficient number of parasites are produced in the individual to cause the symptoms of malaria, and the new subject of the disease thereafter becomes a source of danger to others in the vicinity through the intervention of still other malarial mosquitoes.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR HOUSE.

From the foregoing it is seen that the proper way to avoid malaria is to so screen houses that mosquitoes cannot enter them. Persons in malarial districts should not sit on open porches at night, and should be very careful to sleep under properly constructed nets, this be done, there is absolutely no danger or any one ever contracting the disease. It will be observed that these precautions are not necessary in the daytime, as the malarial mosquito rarely attempts to bite during this period.

It should be remembered by those who have the disease that they are a constant source of danger to people living in the vicinity, and they should be doubly careful as long as the disease persists to avoid being bitten by mosquitoes at night. It is furthermore their duty to treat the disease vigorously until the parasites are no longer present in their bodies, then they cease to be a menace to others.

Attention should be called particularly to the fact that many children have malaria without showing symptoms, and if allowed to sleep without being properly covered with a net, are very apt to infect a large number of malarial mosquitoes. The blood of children in malarial localities should be examined from time to time, and if the parasites be found the children should be given the proper remedies until a cure is effected.

NEGROES HARBOR THE DISEASE.

Particular attention should be directed to the fact that almost all negroes in malarial localities harbor the parasites, though very few of them show symptoms of their presence. It is, therefore, very important that they be treated properly, and their white neighbors should see to it, for their own safety, that the negroes do not sleep in houses unprotected by nets.

If the precautions herein detailed were carried out properly for even a few months, malaria practically would cease to exist in Georgia, and would not recur unless imported already suffering from the disease were to come into the districts where the anopheles mosquito is present.

The state board of health, at its laboratories in the capital at Atlanta, is prepared to make examinations of the blood for malarial parasites free of cost, and will make such tests and report the results to any one desiring them. Specimens should be addressed to Dr. H. F. Harris, secretary state board of health, Atlanta, Ga.

STATE SCHOOL FOR DEAF COMMENDED BY BOARD

Visitors Recommend That the Sign and Oral Methods of Teaching Be Continued

Opposition on the part of a large number of the deaf mutes in the state to the lip or oral system of teaching in vogue at the Georgia School for the Deaf in Cave Springs, Ga., is not shawed by the board of visitors to that institution.

The board, which has just made its report for the year to Governor Brown, recommends that the institution continue teaching both the sign and lip or oral systems as heretofore.

Commendation of the highest character is awarded by the ... to Principal Wesley O. Conner and all his assistants. There are 150 white inmates and ... colored in the institution.

Owing to the crowded condition, the board recommends that a new dormitory for boys be built and that the girls' dormitory be completed along the lines contemplated in plans.

Provision for caring for and teaching deaf mutes in other parts of the state distant from the Cave Spring school is recommended with the proviso that nothing be done which will minimize the usefulness and support of the present institution.

The board recommends that the age of entry be left to the discretion of the board of trustees. At present the law prescribes a minimum of seven years.

Members of the board of visitors are John Awtrey, chairman; E. H. Richardson, M. D., secretary; J. C. Kennett, M. D., R. O. Ross and John L. Herring.

ANSLEY PARK ANNEX LOTS TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION

Big Sale So Effectively Advertised Will Begin at 3:30 Thursday Afternoon

The big auction sale of twenty-five lots in Ansley Park annex, which has been so effectively advertised in the Atlanta daily newspapers for the past several days, will take place Thursday afternoon, beginning at 3:30 o'clock.

The annex adjoins Ansley Park, that famous subdivision put on the market some years ago by Edwin P. Ansley, and now one of the finest residence sections in the southern states. Values in Ansley Park have enhanced without interruption, and in some cases have been phenomenal. A number of original purchasers of Ansley Park lots have made small fortunes on their investment.

For the annex Mr. Ansley predicts a future equally as bright. He says:

"The annex is a continuation of the park. Its history will be a repetition of the first. Why not? Built by the same man, on the same lines, in the same direction, for the same class of people."

In advertising the auction sale, Mr. Ansley has turned out some of the best copy ever printed in Atlanta. His advertisements have been read with as much interest by persons who will not even attend the sale as by prospective purchasers. The keynote of them all has been confidence in the continued growth of Atlanta.

To attend the auction, take Piedmont avenue cars and ride to the end of the line.

MY WHAT A DIFFERENCE FROM YESTERDAY MORN!

The backbone of the heat wave that has held Atlanta and every portion of the country east of the Mississippi in its grasp for several days was broken in this immediate vicinity Wednesday afternoon, when a big thunder shower lowered the temperature from 96 to below normal conditions.

Hail fell in outlying districts, it was reported, as large as hens' eggs, and rain fell in large drops over the whole city enough to make itself felt by all thirsty vegetation. The temperature fell from 96 to 76.

Wednesday started out early, with every indication of being a scorcher. It was 78 at 7 a. m. and the mercury found it easy climbing until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the ominous cloud came to its rescue.

DODD WILL CONTEST TO GO TO SUPERIOR COURT

Efforts to break the will of the late Mrs. Barbara Dodd, prosecuted by relatives on allegations that she was possessed of monomania when the document was drawn, will be carried to superior court. An appeal from the judgment of the court of ordinary, which upheld the validity of the will, has been filed with the higher court.

In the appeal the contestors charge that Mrs. Dodd turned on her relatives some years before her death because they refused to kill or injure Dr. J. H. Garner, her second husband, whom she divorced. Her unfortunate marriage with Garner, the appeal set forth, proved upon her mind to such an extent that she was not mentally competent when the will was written.

WOULD ROTATE JUDGES FOR IMPARTIAL JUSTICE

Rotation of superior court judges from one circuit to another—these assignments to be made by the supreme court—will be provided in a bill which Representative D. C. Pickett, of Terrell county, will introduce at this session of the legislature.

Mr. Pickett believes that such a system, removing, as it will, the judges from the circuits in which they are elected, will lift from them the possibility of all political or personal influences which might serve to bias their rulings.

CITIZENS ORGANIZE TO URGE S. PRYOR PAVEMENT

Dr. Bradfield, Chairman, Calls Meeting for Friday Night to Hear Reports

A meeting of citizens, owners of South Pryor street property, has been called for Friday night at the home of R. B. Deavors, 488 South Pryor.

The meeting is called by Dr. J. H. Bradfield, chairman of the Pryor Street improvement club, and a special invitation is extended to the members of the county board to be present.

For some months the citizens of this section have been holding meetings and planning the improvement of their particular south side thoroughfare. Reports of special committees which have had various matters in hand will be made Friday night.

South Pryor street from Georgia avenue to Ridge avenue is one of the most important thoroughfares on the south side, and yet its condition is a disgrace to the city," said Dr. Bradfield. "It has such an old, rough, worn-out belgian pavement on it that it is almost impassable. We have from time to time been promised relief by the city and county, but as yet nothing has been done. We propose now to get squarely behind the authorities and have this street permanently improved."

VISIT TO MACON ENDS WELL FOR THESE TWO

Announcement of a romantic marriage was made Wednesday when Miss Bessie I. Williman, proprietress of the Sanitary Hair Dressing parlors on Peachtree street, told her real name to her many friends. She had become Mrs. J. D. Rembert, and her new partner for life joyously corroborated what she said.

Mr. Rembert is proprietor of the Ford Sales company at Macon, Ga., but will sell out his present business and become a business as well as a matrimonial partner with his bride. The marriage took place in Perry, Ga., after an eight-year courtship. They had no idea of marrying on that date. Miss Williman, now Mrs. Rembert, was then visiting in Macon, or rather was in the act of boarding a train to return to Atlanta, when the groom at the depot begged her to jump into his car and think things over. He was persistent enough to pull her from the steps of the coach as she grasped the hand rail, and then helped her in his motor "Look out!" exclaimed Miss Williman "you will make me miss my train!"

"We would worry!" rejoined the prospective groom. "Come, let's get married. We've always intended to, and we had just as well do it now."

She acquiesced, and they motored to Perry, Ga., where they were wedded, Dr. Gardner performing the ceremony.

Mr. Rembert was formerly from Dalton, Ga.

OFFICER HAS NARROW ESCAPE ON MOTORCYCLE

Call Officer James Palmer, of the city police force, had a narrow escape Wednesday evening about 10 o'clock, when he answered a call on his motorcycle. He was going out Chapel avenue when he neared Tattnallstreet and almost collided with a fast going trolley car, the approach of which was hidden by thick hedges. With rare presence of mind, Palmer jumped from his motorcycle. The surface car went some thirty yards, it is said, before the motorman could stop it. The car struck the wheel, dragged it, and damaged it badly.

MANAGERS AND OWNERS GET 1915 CONVENTION

Members of the local Building Managers' and Owners' association who attended the convention of the national organization in Cincinnati, succeeded in securing the 1915 gathering for Atlanta.

The delegation first made an attempt to land the 1914 convention, but withdrew in favor of Duluth, Minn., when it was learned that Duluth had placed a bid for the meeting before the Atlanta branch was organized.

Broke It Gently

(Meggendorfer Blatter.)

"Mamma, don't you thing Schiller quite out of date?"

"I certainly do."

"I'm so glad. I just smashed his statuette in the drawing room."

He went to Jersey at the invitation of Congressman Tuttle. His speech was a resume of the accomplishments of the Wilson administration to date.

Swimmer Drowns

GOLDSBORO, N. C., June 19.—William Lane, young son of J. W. Lane, a local merchant, got beyond his depth while in bathing and was drowned in Little river, near here, yesterday afternoon. YANCEY FUND NEARING THOUSAND DOLLAR MARK

Subscriptions Still Coming in Together With Gifts of Food and Clothing

The fund for the family of the late Mr. David Yancey, court deputy, passed the $900 mark Thursday morning; and with subscriptions promised and more that are expected the total should amount to $1,000 or more by Friday morning.

In addition to the generous money subscriptions with which Atlanta folk have responded to the need of the destitute family, a number of local merchants have come forward with gifts of food and clothing which already have been taken to the little home on the Jonesboro road.

Deputy Sheriff J. H. Owen announced that he had deposited $345 in the bank, and had more subscriptions promised which had not yet been paid.

It is impossible to give an exact estimate of the amount received at the sheriff's office and the offices of Atlanta newspapers so far, but at a rough estimate it amounts to about $950. This amount may be increased or made less on a close calculation.

TEN ARE KILLED IN A COLLISION IN CALIFORNIA

Twenty-Five Others Are Injured on an Electric Line Near Vallejo

(By Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—Ten were killed and twenty-five injured in a collision on the Napa Valley Transportation company's electric line, near Vallejo today, according to advices received by the Southern Pacific company.

The enormous sugar beet shown in the hands of Assistant Agricultural Commissioner J. J. Brown was raised in Ware county, near Waycross. It was brought to the agricultural department by Geoge W. Deen, of that city, who requested that it be analyzed by the state chemist to determine the quantity of sugar in it. Should the quantity and quality of sugar show up satisfactorily the farmers in south Georgia will doubtless go in for beet raising, which will mean the establishment of sugar refineries, and which will give a new industry to the state. The beet in the picture weighs ten pounds, is sixteen inches long, seventeen inches in circumference and six inches in diameter. It grew in black sandy soil.

FERTILIZER MEN WANT LOWER FREIGHT RATES

Georgia Fertilizer Mixers' Association in Session—Officers Re-Elected

Preparation for a campaign to induce the railroads of the south to allow a cheaper rate on fertilizer in the bulk, marked the opening session of the fourth annual convention of the Georgia Fertilizers Mixers' association at the Piedmont hotel Thursday morning.

About fifty fertilizer men were present from all parts of the state.

The association expects to wage during the coming year an active and aggressive campaign for a lower rate on the materials which it members handle. A lower rate will result in a great benefit to the farmers of Georgia, they declare.

At the morning session the following officers were re-elected for a year: W. B. Hollingsworth, of Fayetteville, president; Paul Bowden, of Thomson, vice president; J. T. Pittard, of Savannah, secretary, and A. D. Strobhar, of Savannah, treasurer.

A social feature of the convention was a luncheon at the Merchants and Manufacturers' club. After a business session at the hotel Thursday afternoon the convention will adjourn.

SUPT. BRITTAIN TELLS NEGRO TO TEACH HEALTH

Also Advises Teachers to Instil Obedience and Courtesy in Pupils

In an address delivered Wednesday to the Negro Teachers' Association of Georgia, now in session at Morehead college, Atlanta, Hon. M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools, urged that outside of regular teaching, special attention be given to hygiene and sanitation.

Mr. Brittain told the colored teachers that they could do a great work among the people of their race if they would take advantage of every opportunity to stress the laws of health both in and out of the school rooms.

He also advised the colored teachers that their usefulness to their race would be greatly enhanced if they would systematically train their pupils in the qualities of obedience and courtesy. This training, declared Mr. Brittain, would greatly improve the standard of citizenship among the colored people.

DEKALB COUNTY ROME RAIDED BY POLICE

J. I. Townsley and Mrs. A. E. Townsley, his wife, were bound over to DeKalb county courts on a charge of running a disorderly house by City Recorder Thursday morning. Miss Zella Townsley, daughter of the couple, and E. J. Chandlee were also bound over for disorderly conduct. The house was entered by the police early Tuesday morning at the instigation of neighbors.

It is the first case on record where an Atlanta vice case will be tried in DeKalb county. The alleged resort was at 43 Royston street, Inman Park, which is within the city limits, but also in DeaKlb county. The case will be heard at Decatur.

The arrest of the four followed a two months' vigil on the part of half a dozen neighbors, assisted by members of Chief Beavers' vice squad. Witnesses testified that they had seen at least one other girl besides Miss Townsley in the house at different times.

Chandlee said that the girl had formerly worked for him as a bookkeeper.

POSTMASTER CLAXTON IS NOT SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga., June 19.—Reports from the bedside of H. J. Claxton, postmaster at Kite, Ga., who was shot by Eldridge Price Tuesday morning, state that Mr. Claxton is rapidly recovering. Price is still in jail here.

The shooting occurred at the Kite postoffice, when Claxton, it is alleged, resented some remarks made by Price and advanced on the latter.

The bullet from Price's 32-calibre revolver grazed Claxton's left elbow and entered his side just below the heart. The wounded man was rushed to a sanitarium here and for a while it was thought he would not recover.

It is said that Claxton was not armed.

Beautiful $13.50 to $17.50 Embroidery Robes Gathered for Tomorrow's Sale at $9.50

Women will like them at once!

They show all those marks of daintiness that women instinctively turn to for summer dress.

There are some twenty-five in all, and the variety is about as great as the number here. All white voiles and crepes, white voiles and white crepes embroidered in colors—delicate pinks and lavenders and blues and black, and colored voiles embroidered in self color.

The embroidery is RICH, ratine effects and wide borders that seem very heavy for such light, filmy materials.

And they are all so fresh and fine in their individual boxes. That they should be $9.50 instead of $13.50 to $17.50 is due to the fact that an importer was very anxious to lose his stocks.

$2.50 For $4.50 a yd. Embroidered Ratines

No need to tell women how high in fashion's favor are these elegant embroidered ratines!

Still they are reduced! Reduced is hardly the word for it when two dollars is chipped from the price of a yard, and when the yard is 45 inches wide and may be, as you choose, rose, light blue, lavender, tan or pink and has the band to match.

98c For $1.50 and $1.75 a yd. Embroidered Flouncings

The material seems to be the softest and finest mull that looms could weave—all white, 27 inches wide.

Edged with baby Irish laces—a number of patterns. A woman's eyes will see many uses for such flouncings particularly when the price is so unusual.

25c For Valenciennes Lace Flouncings

Just arrived; the patterns are new, the fineness of the mesh shows they are worth more than their tomorrow's price and your knowledge of laces will tell you as much.

9 to 12 inches wides.

Half Price For Linen and Cluny Laces

A fine lot from which to choose trimmings for dresses, for waists, for underwear. They are half price because we are clearing up stocks. There are edges and bands one-half inch to three inches wide and the variety is evidenced by the price range—formerly 20c to $2.00 a yard, now 10c to $1.00.

A Great Sale of Summer-Time Gloves

Women with a sense of thrift will fill the glove box tomorrow and Saturday—fill it so that the inroads of the whole summer's demands will not deplete it.

Read why—

At 29c

Kayser's $1.00 16-Button Gloves

Yes, Kayser's—the name is on every pair and the consequent warrant of service.

The colors included are brown, tan, chamois, pink, light blue, lavender, reseda and gray.

All sizes from 5 1-2 to 7 1-2.

At 98c

Kayser's $1.50 16-Button Gloves

The silk is that beautiful, heavy all silk quality that wears and wears. They are embroidered rather richly. Choose from pink, light blue, pongee, gray, rose, lavender, tan and brown.

All sizes.

At 79c

$2.50 to $3.00 Chamois Gloves

In both sixteen-button and twelve-button lengths. They wash without hurt—perhaps one reason why chamois gloves are so liked for summer wear. They may be kept fresh with very little in convenience. Natural shade. Sizes 5 1-2 to 7.

Newly Arrived Wash Fabrics

The buyer is just returned from New York, with the result that the Wash Goods Section has taken on a new and resplendent appearance, such as is not always found in every store at this season. However, that is but one of the ways Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. serves you better.

Working on the principle that women seeking fresh, summery dresses right now, deserve as choice a variety to choose from as was offered a month ago, the buyer has bought abundantly and beautifully.

But it is not so much the quantity as the charming novelty of fabrics here right now that we would emphasize.

Sheer, diaphanous weaves, daintily colored and flowered and figured and striped and all white—it would seem no breeze would pass them by; the sun's heat would be cooled by them.

Planning another dress? You must see these fabrics!

There are—

New French Crepes in plain shades and striped and figured and flowered—little rosebuds and clusters of flowers in delicate shades.

New Voiles in light and dark shades, some times with the most unobtrusive stripe of self color through them; voiles with ratine borders. One very pretty white voile has a light blue ratine border.

New Silk and Cotton fabrics, perhaps you would never detect that there is a cotton thread in them, so silk like is their sheen and so silky do they "feel." But their chiefest charm is the new way little flowers are thrown across surfaces.

But there are more new things that will interest you than can well be told of here!

The lobby investigation is sugar coated only in one sense

If Wilson can do so much in less than four months, what could he not do in four whole years?

The Folly and Danger of Heedless Appropriations.

The time has come when the Legislature must look Georgia's financial problems squarely in the face and renounce the old, slipshod policy of indulging in appropriations which the State's income is obviously insufficient to meet. Despite the warnings of successive governors and the prophetic facts and figures adduced each year by the comptroller general, our legislators have gone on handling the State's business after the manner of the hungry man in the fairy tale who flung away his last penny and hoped it would rain truffles by dinner time. It was inevitable that sooner or later a day of serious reckoning would come; and now it is here, so stark and grim that it cannot be ignored.

The appropriations passed by the last General Assembly exceeded the visible revenues for the period to which applied, that is the years 1912 and 1913, by approximately half a million dollars. A fortunate increase in tax assessments in 1912 served to reduce this deficit for that particular year but the fact remains that the excess of appropriations over available treasury funds is still embarrassingly large; and as one of the many distressing consequences, we find the common schools begging hopelessly for the money due them.

Surely, the incoming Legislature will not fail to profit by this example and limit its appropriations to the State's calculable revenues. There is manifest need, to be sure, of providing well considered means for a larger income; but the immediate and ever present duty is to see to it that appropriations are held within businesslike bounds.

Spring fever has given way to the summer vacation epidemic.

These summer sessions at Washington are also hard on the chautauquas.

The schoolboy is not bothered about where to spend the summer vacation. Enough that he has one.

The Wisdom of National Aid In Reclaiming Swamp Lands.

The suggestion by Secretary of the Interior Lane that the federal Government enter more largely than heretofore into a plan of co-operation with the various States for the drainage of swamp and overflow lands will doubtless enlist the hearty approval of all sections of the Union and particularly that of the South.

The details of the Secreary's proposal have not been made generally public. It is presumed, however, that he contemplates a system similar to that which the Government has employed so profitably in reclaiming arid lands in the West. In those enterprises federal aid was extended on terms which the States could easily meet and which at the same time protected the Government against ultimate loss or ill planned ventures. As a result thousands of acres that were formerly unsuited to agriculture and, indeed, entirely worthless in their original condition have been irrigated and turned to productive purposes.

If it was important and profitable to reclaim arid lands, it is even more so to reclaim the vast areas which are now in swamps or are subject to overflow; for, as a rule, drainage could be more easily and more cheaply accomplished than irrigation and its benefits would be speedily realized. Furthermore, such improvements would mean as much to public health as to economic interests. It is a matter of record that in those States where swamp lands have been drained the death rate from malaria has been reduced to a minimum.

It is to be hoped that Congress will find means for carrying out the purpose of Secretary Lane's timely recommendation. Georgia will be especially interested in these plans, for the reason that it has a larger area of swamp and overflow lands, Florida excepted, than any other State on the Atlantic coast.

What splendid facilities are offered for remaining poor!

When put to the test, some virtues are found to be thinly veneered.

Contentment may be better than great riches, but it is just as hard to get.

If a man is smart enough to fool a woman it is because she wants to be fooled.

A man just can't help feeling foolish every time he hears of a baby being named after him.

Currency Legislation Needed Now.

In his determination to press the matter of constructive currency reform at the present session of Congress, President Wilson is supported by thoughtful business opinion the country over. For many years past the need of a more elastic system of currency and one based upon sounder economic principles has been manifest; today it is imperative and the sooner this problem is taken up and disposed of, the better will it be for every field of commercial and industrial interests.

Tariff revision and currency revision should go hand in hand; for, they concern common problems. The tariff bill now pending in the Senate is assured of passage. The prompt enactment of a well considered currency measure would do more perhaps than anything else to render the necessary adjustments to the new tariff easy and normal and to forestall any financial stringency which might arise.

Furthermore, it is known that currency legislation will be forthcoming, if not at the present session, then at the regular session of Congress next winter. For the sake of business interests, to which suspense is naturally unwholesome, this question should be settled with all reasonable expedition.

Hon. Pleasant A. Stovall, Minister to Switzerland.

The President's nomination of Hon. Pleasant A. Stovall, of Savannah, as United States minister to Switzerland has been unanimously approved by the foreign relations committee and will be duly confirmed by the Senate. The appointment of Mr. Stovall to a mission so rich in honor and opportunities is heartily gratifying to his friends throughout Georgia and the South. No man has rendered truer service to the party's best interests and no one has been readier than President Wilson to recognize his merit. The appointment is a particularly happy one. Mr. Stovall is distinctly gifted in those qualities of mind and character and personality that should be required of one who represents this nation abroad.

In the satisfaction which his friends feel over the honor he has worthily been accorded, there is a tinge of regret over the fact that his new duties will call him from the State to whose progress and welfare his influence as a citizen and as editor of the Savannah Evening Press has been so loyally given. We congratulate him most cordially and trust that his stay in the historic republic of the Alps will be as much a pleasure to him as it will be, we are sure, a credit to the nation he represents.

The Gratifying Growth Of Georgia Truck Farms.

It is remarkable how frequently and in what numbers Georgia planters are attesting the value of diversified crops in general and of truck farming in particular. From Brooks county comes the story of an especially interesting example. A farmer near Quitman devoted twenty-five acres to cucumbers and ten to Irish potatoes, largely as an experiment. Thus far, it is said, he has shipped twenty-eight hundred crates from his cucumber fields, receiving two dollars a crate; and this week he will market an additional eighteen hundred crates at the same figure. The price was less than that realized on the earlier Florida crops but even at that the investment has yielded a return of more than nine thousand dollars and at the same time has left the soil free to be turned to further use.

This is but one among scores of instances that testify to the possibilities of truck farming in Georgia and that are persuading a larger and larger number of progressive planters to avail themselves of these fertile opportunities. On this basis, perhaps, we may explain the fact that the State's cotton acreage is appreciably less this season than in years gone by. Alert farmers are realizing that there is a surer and a larger profit in planting a variety of crops, so that if one fails, others will make up the loss, than in staking all their money and labor on a single uncertain venture.

It is not necessary, however, that there should be less cotton in order that there may be more food products. It is only essential that really businesslike methods be applied to agriculture. The fact that farsighted farmers in every part of the State are turning to the production of food supplies and are proving the practical value of such a policy is one of the most wholesome and cheering signs of the day.

THE PHILIPPINES

VII.—THE UNIVERSITY.
BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

One of the newest and at the same time most interesting of American universities is the University of the Philippines. It is now in its third year, and already is recognized as one of the leading institutions of higher learning in the far east, ranking with the best universities of Japan. It is the capstone of the public school system of the Philippine government, and as such is designed to impart to thousands of Filipinos the last word in the policy of personal efficiency, practical training, economic and industrial development which the Americans are implanting in the Philippine islands.

• • •

The University of the Philippines was created by an act of the Philippine commission, passed on June 18, 1908, an appropriation of $50,000 being authorized for preliminary plans. The institution as now organized was authorized by an act of the Philippine legislature of January 30, 1911, amending the previous act. It is wholly a governmental affair, authorized by Filipinos, paid for by Filipinos, destined in time to be directed largely by Filipinos, and always will be devoted almost exclusively to the education of Filipinos. In short, it is a university for the Filipinos, as President Murray Bartlett pointed out on the occasion of his inauguration in Manila, December 20, 1911. Needless to say, everything is taught in English.

• • •

The university is composed of the college of liberal arts, the college of medicine and surgery, the college of law, the college of agriculture, the college of engineering, the college of veterinary science and the school of fine arts. It is controlled by a board of regents made up of government officials and citizens, Americans and Filipinos, including the secretary of public instruction, the secretary of the interior, in whose department are the great scientific bureaus of the government, and the director of education. One of the regents is Rt. Rev. Jeremiah J. Harty, archbishop of Manila. The president of the university was formerly dean of the Episcopal cathedral of St. Mary and St John in Manila. Both selections were made largely because of the important part religion plays in Philippine affairs. A university council composed of the president and the deans of the colleges empowered to award degrees directs the internal affairs of the university. The board of visitors comprises the governor general, the speaker of the Philippine assembly and the justices of the supreme court.

• • •

The usual academic and scientific degrees are given. While the university is not ready so early in its career to offer doctorates, several of its departments provide splendid opportunities for research work, of which a number of Americans and foreigners in Manila are availing themselves. The archives will find a rich storehouse in the herbarium of the bureau of science with its 30,000 mounted specimens, two-thirds of which are Philippine. The botanical library contains a practically complete set of books applying to the flora of the Philippines and to that of Indo-Malaysia. The library of the bureau of science, the most notable in the far east, is open to chemists who desire to complete their course for the degree of doctor of philosophy or to prepare a thesis on chemical subjects relating to the tropics.

• • •

Perhaps no university in the world is in a position to advance the practical study of tropical medicine as a post graduate course as is the University of the Philippines. Schools of tropical medicine are to be found in all parts of the world, but many of them are in temperate climes, where actual contact with tropical disease is almost impossible. The college of medicine and surgery supports a department of tropical medicine which is fully equipped and capable of offering facilities for study and research to medical men of other countries who would investigate the diseases of the tropics. Such visitors are welcomed to the use of the laboratories and libraries of the bureau of science and of the college of medicine and surgery.

• • •

Veteran lawyers of America and Europe find much to learn in the study of the Philippine codes. They are a composite of Roman law and the English common law. American legal forms have been grafted on Spanish jurisprudence. Under the direction of the Philippine code commission a new and composite framework of national laws is being erected. To the zoologist in search of a wider knowledge the shores and waters of Manila bay furnish a large amount of interesting zoological material. Extremely rich coral reefs are accessible by short steamer journeys. The bureau of science has a well classified and fairly complete collection of Philippine birds, reptiles, fishes and insects. The department of animal biology has a well equipped laboratory, and the equipment of the zoological division of the bureau of science is also satisfactory.

• • •

The university has been very fortunate in its choice of professors, instructors and lecturers. Not only are they men of proper academic training, but are well grounded in their individual specialties. They have in addition an intimate knowledge of the Philippine situation. They know the Filipino like a book, relatively speaking, of course. Perhaps no white man alive ever corners the Malayan ego long enough to get a real good look at it. At any rate, they know all that can be known of their charges, plus their academic qualifications. For its faculty the university was able to draw from the supreme court and other legal circles, scientists from the bureau of science, from the hospitals recognized authorities on tropical medicine, etc.

• • •

The Filipinos have not been overlooked. Indeed, it is the policy of the university to have Filipinos on the faculty wherever possible, and to increase their representation at every reasonable opportunity. At the present time a Filipino, Rafael Enriquez, is dean of the school of fine arts, three hold full professorships, one is an associate professor, one is assistant professor, eighteen are instructors, and ten are lecturers. As the Filipinos advance the high places in the university will be turned over to them, and it is reasonable to suppose that a Filipino will be president of the institution in due time.

• • •

As the pinnacle of the Philippine educational edifice, the university aims to be the last chapter of the hard headed practical course which even now is being shaped to dominate all the public schools of the islands. While maintaining academic standards, it will encourage rather than impede the policy of "scientific management in scholarship."

• • •

The university expects to have a great deal to do with the intellectual, political and economic transformation of the Filipino people. It expects to lead in the economic development. It will send forth Filipinos trained as agriculturists, veterinarians, engineers, foresters, physicians, scientists, lawyers, business men, specialists, all dedicated to labor in every branch of human activity to build up a contented, prosperous, healthy, homogenous race under social conditions that are founded upon justice and righteousness. In other words, as Dr. Bartlett epitomized in his inaugural address "efficiency, founded upon scholarship and inspired by character."

• • •

When the scattered college were formed into the present university a little over two years ago there were 599 students. At the first commencement in the spring of 1911 there were but ten graduates, of whom only three were awarded the degree of bachelor of arts. At the second commencement, March 7, 1912. Vice Governor General Gilbert handed diplomas to thirty, the degree of bachelor of arts going to sixteen. It is significant that these thirty graduates, two of whom were young women, come from ten different provinces. One of the women who graduated was a physician, Miss Marie Paz Mendoza, of Manila, the first woman in the history of the islands to earn the doctorate of medicine.

THE DIARY OF OUR OWN SAMUEL PEPYS.

June 12.—Great talk all through the town over the day, it being Friday the thirteenth, but I have no sympathy with any superstition soever, and deem all such talk the silliest of balderdash. Home to dinner where are come R. Lingley and Mistress Clare and Lucy, and L. played upon the pianoforte melodies from "The Prince of Penzance," "Ruddigore" and "Princess Ida" of Sir Arthur Sullivan's, very pretty and L. playing as I do admire, I played a few airs upon my harmonika, but with no great artistry, and I fear I have lost my virtuosity.

14.—With my cozen Charles to the tennis-court and met there J. Wise and C. Riegelsman, and Wise and I did play my cozen and C. Riegelman three setts and they did win two of them wholly by reason of the great skill endurance speed courage and intrepidity of C. Riegelman who plays so fine a game I was hard put to it to defeat him in singles tomorrow week. Thence home in my cozen's petroleum-waggon and to-bed.

15.—Lay late, and stopped in doors all the day, writing letters and fashioning verses and whimsies. Came Walter and Margery to dinner and we did have a duck, roasted very fine, and some peaches, which I did go to a fruiterer's to buy at six o'clock and never saw aught like the way the women did act in their frenzy to be waited upon, the worst manners ever I saw. Read this night Arnold Bennett's "The Old Adam," very amusing and humorous, and I did not set it down until I had finished it, and so to-bed.

WHY SOCIALISTS BECOME ANARCHISTS.
By Inez Haynes Gillmore.

"Well, of course, nowadays we're all Socialists, more or less."

"I like the Socialist theory all right, but I hate the Socialists."

"Of course you're a Socialist; you don't own any property."

"Socialism! Have you ever noticed the elevator service in a building that's owned by the government?"

"It's all right when it comes to this idea of dividing things—"

"I wish I had money enough to endow a few Socialists with $50,000 apiece; you'd see how long they'd remain Socialists then."

"Do you really think you can be a Socialist and a Christian at the same time?"

"If the government were to take all the money in the world and divide it equally, by the end of a year it would all be back where it is now."

"If a man's smart enough to make $1,000,000, I think he ought to be allowed to do it."

"A Socialist is a man who's failed himself and so he's mad because the other fellow got there."

Within my heart dwells not my love's true being,
My love for thee tells without heart its story,
Turned there whence human passion predatory
And thought of evil must in shame be fleeing.
When fared our souls to earth by God's decreeing,
Love made me Eye full powered—thee Light and Glory.
E'en in thy mortal charms, by allegory,
My vision high His presence still was seeing.
As fire of heat must ever be the reason,
Eternal beauty ever from thee streameth
Who to thy source does lift my soul appealing.
Thine eyes of Paradise grant endless season;
To dwell where first I loved my love now dreameth,
Beneath thy brows my soul, on fire, revealing.

THE SECOND-RATER

By DR. FRANK CRANE.
(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

On June 2 Alfred Austin, poet laureate of England, died in his seventy-ninth year, at his residence in Kent.

He did not impress the literary world with the feeling that he was of poet laureate calibre, and was more generally criticised than applauded.

To such speculation as to whom Premier Asquith will appoint as his successor, Kipling comes naturally first to mind, as he is by common consent the English poet with the most unmistakable genius. No rhymester can equal him in putting into apt expression the passion of his people. He is, however, a violent partisan and his nomination for the post would be fought furiously. William Watson is of Tennysonian rank in the estimation of many, but he is entirely too erratic for the place. Thomas Hardy is mentioned, but his record upon certain themes is against him.

The probability is that the honor will go to some second rate man.

And, come to think of it, the honors usually go to the second rater.

It may sound cynical, but it is undeniable, that the human race, as a rule, passes by its great men and selects those of inferior grade for positions of great dignity, authority, and emolument.

Weak-kneed Pontius Pilate was the ruler of the Jews and tolerably well accepted; they found nothing better to do with the greatest man in the world when He happened among them than to crucify Him.

The Greeks ostracised one of their wisest statesmen because they were bored with hearing him called "The Just;" and poisoned the greatest philosopher of all time.

The Florentines banished Dante and burnt Savonarola, but willingly bowed their necks to the rule of the corrupt Medici.

It is hard to find a bishop that ever amounted to much; only such as cast out Luther, Wesley, and Booth seem to have the divine fire we look for in prophets.

The Hohenzollerns, Bourbons, Wettins, and Romanoffs, the grand life-job holders of Europe, might possibly earn $50 a month on their own merits, but it is doubtful. There has never appeared anything resembling the superhuman among them.

The average millionaire in America is totally unfit, by temper, genius, and morals, to be in possession of the vast influence of money.

This is not cheap, railing language. It is plain fact and common sense, which it would be well for all aspiring youth who feel the lure of "greatness" to heed.

More than virtue, greatness is strictly "its own reward." It is quite sure to develop such idiosyncrasy as to make it unpopular. It is rather certain to raise up such a storm of opposition that its possessor could not be elected keeper of the village pound.

Greatness consists in vision of the eternal truth, which the populace eternally disbelieves.

The desire to rule, to be prominent, to be the rage, to control great wealth, to be served and flattered, is small, and besets small souls.

It is the desire to express one's self truly, to serve men, to follow the gleam and to satisfy the exactions of one's own self-respect, that makes a man great.

Such men get no high offices.

Being a Genius' Wife Has Its Drawbacks

(London Express.)

Incidents of everyday life are described with delightful flashes of wit and quaint phrases in an interesting collection of hitherto unpublished letters from Mrs. Carlyle to her intimate friend, Miss Kate Sterling, at the London library, St. James square.

The letters, which were written from the Carlyles' house in Cheyne row between 1849 and 1856, have been preserved in Miss Kate Sterling's family.

Miss Sterling became Mrs. Ross, and the letters have now been left to the London library by her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Woodward.

They are written on unstamped writing paper in the thin, precise writing of the period, and show more emotion than would have been expected from the girl, Jane Welch, whose love letters to Thomas Carlyle in their youth were masterpieces of businesslike logic.

THE LESSON OF LIFE.

The experience accumulated during a married life that was none too happy is summed up in a sad little message to her friend shortly before the latter's marriage to Mr. Ross:

After all, I have never found the least good myself in what others say to us, either for comfort or edification!

One must work out for one's self every lesson of life. • • • Ah! Heaven, yes! Haven't I, for example, been privileged for the last quarter of a century to hear the "Greatest Thinker of the Age" denouncing the sins and shortcomings of the world the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night, and have I hated and despised the world's ways a bit the more for all that?

In this almost impassioned sentence lies the only inkling the letters contain that those who live with the great may sometimes become satiated with greatness.

The letters are full of domestic chatter—expressions of affection for her friend and scraps of social news which are delightful, as, for instance, the following description of an incident at a society function:

At a huge soiree at Bath House last night • • • we took with us, at Lady A.'s request, Mr. Ruskin, and considering how people have stared at that man ever since he had the happiness to be divorced by his wife, I displayed, I think, a certain force of mind in taking his arm to go in instead of Mr. Carlyle's, and getting myself announced "Mrs. Carlyle and Mr. Ruskin."

How terribly ill-bred people are as a general rule!

Where Mail Carrying is Dangerous

(Chicago Tribune.)

The camel postman in the Sahara hasn't any cinch—that is, if he has a family he's anxious to live for or happens to be leading a carefree bachelor existence—for he needs all the nerve that he can possibly summon on every trip that he makes, for the wild tribes regard him as their particular prey, and he never does know when he starts out whether or not he is going to reach his destination.

Neither has the postman in some parts of Switzerland the safest job in the world. In fact, in several places in that country it is considered just about the most dangerous profession that a man can enter.

You see some of the postoffices are situated at a height of 7,000 feet. There is even a letter box at the summit of Languard, which is nearly 10,000 feet above the sea level. Here all sorts of disastrous things have happened to unfortunate carriers of mail. There have been crushed to death by avalanches and a large number, it is rumored, have been swooped down upon and carried away by fierce eagles.

Then in India the postman always has to be on the lookout for snakes. It is asserted that within the last year 150 were killed by snake bites and twenty-seven eaten by tigers.

Queer, isn't it, when in this country the business of being a postman seems about the most harmless and least dangerous of any a man could pick out?

In Siberia they have only two mail deliveries a year, while in the interior of China they have no regular delivery or regular postmen.

EXPERTS EXPLAIN VALUE OF A SOCIAL SURVEY

Russell Sage Foundation Representatives Tell of Good Done Elsewhere

While business, commercial, industrial, professional and social Atlanta has progressed along her set lines of endeavor and entertainment during the past week as though nothing out of the ordinary were happening she has, none the less, been the patient of three men who quietly set about their task of making a complete diagnosis of her condition embodying every phase of life in the city.

In other words the preliminary work of a "social survey" has passed its first week in the hands of Shelby M. Harrison, director of the Russell Sage Foundation, Zenas L. Potter and Franz Schneider, Jr., his assistants, who are here with him to carry on the work of blazing the trail for a complete survey in the near future.

The work has been done so quietly, and with such extreme care that only those who have been approached for information realize what is being done. No effort is being made now to even attempt to draw any conclusions or reach a decision involving a single phase of the survey. The work now, is simply that of getting the necessary information together. No effort is being made to even study it or give it a moment's consideration. Facts are being collected for assimilation And they are being collected in a thorough matter, as only experts are able to command.

When the preliminary work is over, at the end of the week the assimilation of the facts and figures will begin in New York city. Finally a report will be made and it will not only be the findings of these three men but it will bear the stamp of approval of foundation experts in every field to whom the entire matter has been submitted and who assisted in the classification process with Mr. Harrison, Mr. Potter and Mr. Schneider.

MR. POTTER TALKS.

In an interview given The Journal Thursday morning Mr. Potter explained the spirit in which a "social survey" is given, going minutely into every detail of the meaning of the survey.

Mr. Potter said:

"A social survey is not a muck-raking proposition. It has no interest in muck as such, and no desire for sensationalism. If unpleasant things are taken up and revealed to the public view it is only in order that they may be eliminated from the community life.

"A social survey is not undertaken as some investigations have been, merely to gratify the investigators' desire for knowledge. Unless the presentation of facts is accompanied with suggestions as to how the bad conditions discovered may be improved, and how they have been improved elsewhere, the social survey fails in its chief purpose—the betterment of conditions of life in the community as a whole.

"A social survey is not undertaken in the spirit of criticism either of individual citizens or of the city. The critical spirit, either in dealings with the individual or community, is anything but helpful. A scathing critic is one's worst enemy. But the person who comes in the spirit of friendliness, studies one's character, and makes suggestions with the desire to help, is one's best friend—a much better friend than the person who fawningly compliments from morning to night. The social survey aims to come to a community as its friend and tell how it ranks when measured by the standards developed in other communities. To hold a city, or a city department, or an individual, up to public scorn is farthest from its intent.

NO MONEY-MAKING PROPOSITION.

"This social survey is not a money-making proposition. The Russell Sage foundation is supported by the income from $10,000,000 given by Mrs. Sage to improve the living conditions of the people of this country. To encourage cities the country over to make surveys of themselves is one of the methods which has been adopted to serve this end, and when the money which the Atlanta citizens have agreed to put into this undertaking has been spent the Sage Foundation will be the poorer for having undertaken the work.

"A social survey is not a personal proposition; it is a community undertaking for the benefit of the people as a whole. The survey is made neither to advance the interests of any individual nor to injure them. It sometimes happens that selfish interests of some individuals are detrimentally affected; but if the survey serves the purpose it is intended to serve no upright public-spirited citizen will be harmed. It aims only to set forth a true picture of a city's life, and the facts can harm no honest man. From the survey's standpoint, however, consideration of individual interest do not enter in. It is the community's life it attempts to study, for the benefit of the people as a whole."

WHAT IT DID FOR PITTSBURG.

An interesting inside view of the good that has come out of these surveys is given in a letter written by H. D. W. English, president of the Pittsburg, Pa., chamber of commerce, to a city which had the matter under consideration.

The letter follows:

"I never could understand how business men, who are keen and up-to-date and who investigate their own particular business and survey it minutely, hesitate to use the same keen analysis, the same introspection, first to know the truth about conditions in public matters, as they are always doing in their private business. To correct mistakes, to rebuild and regenerate a business, a survey, a taking stock of present conditions is the first essential. Indeed money spent in finding out what is the matter is later on, if wisely followed out, money found. It is, however, amazing how many fine men in a city care nothing for the problems that come to every organization if allowed like Topsy to have "just growed up," outside of those more selfish and personal matters of how to get more money, more convenience, more amusement or pleasure in and from a city. What is the matter? Why let one of these gentlemen take the same interest in his private business and know as little about its actual conditions as he does of this city and bankruptcy becomes his, and not one of his business companions but what will say "well he deserved it."

"What is the matter? Well, we fail to recognize that every life which draws something from the common good in a city and adds nothing to it, simply is at work sucking the lemon dry and there will be nothing left but a slimy husk for every wayfarer to slip on and kick at.

"It is a spurious kind of citizenship which affects to regard surveys into the social assets of a city such as health and sanitation, better city planning, delinquency in both juvenile and adult, industrial conditions, budget making and finance, as being hurtful to a city, and because it might temporarily hurt business it is better to wear blinders and not see or know too much. The facts are, no city can be great commercially which is down at the heel civicly.

A PERTINENT QUESTION.

"How can any set of business men go out from a community and ask for business confidence, for contracts involving immense sums of money when that city's public business and civic tone is so low from carelessness or neglect as to cause suspicion to fall on these same business men, who through neglect of their civic duties have given a just cause for suspicion of business incompetency?

"It does not matter how unjust it may be to the individual. Allow the city to drift civicly upon the rocks of indifference to the lives of the people which make up its community life; how they are aroused; how they toil and its results; how the health and sanitation conditions are; how many juvenile and adult delinquents they turn out annually instead of self-respecting citizens, and you have a city whose commercial prosperity and moral tone will soon follow that civic drift.

"Up-to-date cities are commencing to see how idle and expensive to the taxpayer and deceiving for men and women to build summer homes, hospitals, wage war on tuberculosis, on homes for delinquent men, women and children, when by civic neglect and present day commercial and industrial methods they are increasing the need for such places and such work. That hundreds of thousands of dollars to equip modern mills must to be a future commercial success, carry with it other hundreds of thousands of dollars for decent homes for workingmen to live in, who can in turn give the full equivalent in healthy and effective service in these mills; that the machinery that maims men and fills the hospitals at public expense to the citizen, and causes loss of time and extra expense, must be supplanted by protective machinery or it will prove a losing proposition commercially.

"Pittsburg had its survey. There are plenty of other places where the industrial and social conditions are at the very least as bad as those shown by the Pittsburg survey. The difference is in the fact that Pittsburg started to find out about the conditions and remedy them. The survey has amply, and more than amply, vindicated itself, because many of the worst conditions alluded to have been wholly or partially remedied, and we need not inquire too closely into the accuracy of the statement of those remedying the bad conditions when they assert that it was a mere coincidence that they happened to remedy them as soon as the commission started to point them out. As long as they were remedied it is not of very much consequence why those who applied the remedy did so, but I am exceedingly thankful for the happy coincidence that produced the survey just at that time.

DELAY IS DANGEROUS.

"Tell your men that unless they find out and correct the day will come when the workingman will come as a committee to investigate your social conditions before he will remove with a manufactory to your city. His report upon the social side and not its commercial side will determine whether you are to get the better class of industries. This is a low ground upon which to place the finer ideals of social progress and advance, but the only ground which will appeal to many business men.

"We have found here a much better and finer spirit, a determination to get together not only bravely to face all the wrongs which the survey has disclosed, but to correct them. So the business man of a city who is broad enough to see that his city cannot be great commercially and at the same time unbusinesslike, and inhuman civicly, and lends his best energies in finding out the cause and then solving these civic questions is the coming broad-minded and humane business man of the twetieth century, who is to be the real future force in the civic life of his community, and thus contribute to the social civic and commercial greatness of the city to which he owes allegiance, and in whose behalf it will be at all times his pleasure to serve. Remembering always that every business man inherits as he lives, much from the city, and should bequeath something of his time, his talents and his substance, for the higher good of that city before he dies."

GRAND JURY INDICTS DODGEN FOR LARCENY

J. H. Dodgen, Attorney, Held by True Bill Charging Larceny After Trust

An indictment charging larceny after trust was returned by the Fulton grand jury Thursday morning against James H. Dodgen, an attorney of Atlanta.

The specifications behind the indictment are said to be based on the story of a negro, John Wilson, who recently finished serving a term of eight months in the chaingang. The negro alleges, it is said, that he gave the attorney the keys to his house and a bill of sale for his furniture, in order to raise $20 to pay the lawyer to get him out on certiorari bond and get his sentence reduced, after he had pleaded guilty and been sentenced in city criminal court upon the charge of gaming. Thereafter, said the negro, he heard nothing more of the attorney, but was compelled to serve his sentence.

The attorney's side of the story is reported to be that the negro owed him a fee of $20 for previous services rendered.

Dodgen was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Plennie Miner and later released on $500 bond. It is said that another presentment may be sent to the grand jury Friday.

SEARCH FOR LANCASTER, MISSING SINCE MONDAY

The police have been asked to look for L. W. Lancaster, a collector for the furniture store of Campbell & Brownlee, 226 Peters street, who has been missing since he left the place at the usual hour Monday night. There is no shortage in his accounts, his employers say, and neither they nor the people at 22 Ferguson street, where Lancaster lived, can account for his disappearance.

FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
GRAND—"Quo Vadis," in pictures.
BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

There is a great demand for seats for the Keith vaudeville program at the Forsyth this week. The acts that make up the show have scored hits.

Bud Fisher, creator of "Mutt and Jeff," is one of the best known among contributors to the comic sections of newspapers.

"The Lawn Party," as presented by a company of ten juveniles, is a novelty. These young people appear in impersonations of some of the leading people of stageland. The act is clever.

Pauline Welch, with beautiful clothes and a series of all new songs, established her place on the bill early in the week. Miss Welch is one of the better known comediennes in vaudeville.

There are other features that make the bill attractive.

For next week the headline attraction will be Gertrude Vanderbilt, assisted by George Moore, in a singing and dancing novelty.

Another feature on the bill will be "Ideal," the diver, who will appeal at this time to the divers and swimmers who are wanting new ideas. The advance sale of seats is on.

"Quo Vadis" is creating the same sensation in Atlanta at the Grand that has been registered by the great photoplay in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. The increase in attendance since Monday afternoon is conclusive evidence that the picture has been talked about, and that the people are hurrying to secure seats well in advance for the remaining exhibitions this week.

During the hottest days Atlanta has experienced in two years the Grand has been kept as comfortable as any place. The huge ventilating plant has been worked overtime, and the big battery of ceiling and blow fans help wonderfully to reduce temperature and add to the interest in the wonderful pictures.

There is something about "Quo Vadis" that brings people back to the Grand for another view. A gentleman with a party of ladies visited the pictures on Monday and has returned for every evening exhibition since. He says he has found something new at each visit and that he proposes to see all the exhibitions in order that he may be thoroughly familiar with this masterpiece in motion photography.

There are scenes of intense sensation. The burning of Rome is perhaps the most wonderful scene that ever has been staged, unless the scenes at Nero's circus are most wonderful. It is a fact that even strong men gasp when the lions are turned against the Christians, and when the bull bearing Lygia enters the arena.

Thousands have visited the Grand during the first three days of the week and thousands more will view "Quo Vadis" at the daily matinee and night exhibitions the rest of the week.

At the Bijou this week "The Duke of Durham" is scoring a big hit and indications point to the largest audiences of the season, breaking all records of the house. "The Duke" is one of the merriest and most pretentious musical comedy tabloids that has been offered so far in Atlanta. Lou Shean and his company of twenty fun-makers are making things lively. There is an abundance of good comedy, some clever vaudeville acts, pretty musical numbers and an attractive chorus. There is something doing every minute, from the moment the curtain goes up on the first act till the grand finale of the second act, and applause is interrupted only by laughter and breathing spells.

The Bijou claims that Atlanta never has been given better entertainment at bargain prices, and that as long as the quality of these shows is kept up to its present standard the Bijou will continue to draw the biggest crowds in its history.

During the week matinees will be given every afternoon at 2 o'clock and night performances at 7:30 and 9 o'clock.

LOWER CABLES AND BRAIN PRESSURE CAUSED DECLINE

Market in New York Closed 1 Point Up to 8 Points Off From Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 19.—The cotton market opened steady at 4 points decline to 8 points in response to lower Liverpool cables, reports of favorable weather and crop advices in the south and renewed foreign selling. There also was scattering liquidation. The market received support on the decline and at times rallied a point or two after the opening.

Indications of rebuffing by recent sellers steady the market later in the morning and after showing a net loss of from 6 to 10 points, prices at noon were only 2 or 3 points under yesterday's closing on active months.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, June 19.—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 4 points down, compared with the close of yesterday. Cables were lower than due. The weather map showed favorable temperatures being fairly high in the cotton region, while no great amount of rain was reported anywhere. The weather was called generally favorable for the season, with the early trouble in Oklahoma and Texas disappearing at the end of the first half hour of business 3 points under yesterday's last quotations.

Toward the middle of the morning the market fell off under some selling, influenced by Arkansas reporting blooms in sections that were supposed to be suffering from shedding and lack of moisture. The trading months went 5 to 7 points under yesterday's last prices, but the market had little selling power, however, and bears did not press their advantage. A moderate amount of buying for long account was seen in on the decline and the market quickly rerecorded, standing at 2 points higher to 1 point up, compared with the last quotations of yesterday.

HAYWARD & CLARK COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 19.—The most important news over the week's recognition at the head of the bureau of statistics at Washington, this reading showing that the bureau report, The press reports two important financial failures in Germany, showing a basis of the reported big speculative operations in cotton securities in that country.

Cessna unfailingly, rents 5 lower, silver is off. Weather conditions continue very good over Oklahoma and warm weather without excesses over the entire belt. Further good general rains over west Texas. Some scattered showers in the eastern portion of that state. Indications are for partly cloudy weather with some scattered showers and continued warm. Any claim of excessive heat which, moreover, could only apply to very limited areas, it at once dismissed as absurd in the light of 1911, the record crop year, which shows, for many days in the month, temperatures much higher than those prevailing at present. The rain might for the week breaks around 30,000 bales against 37,822 last year. We compare with mill takings of 180,000 last year. Owing to the exportation of May tenders from New York and from here, which cotton is no being landed abroad, mill taking for the week should compare bullishly with those of last year. The market lost about 5 points in the early trading, but there was no pressure to sell and prices are steady around 11.58 for December.

NEW YORK COTTON LETTER

NEW YORK, June 19.—Cotton Map Was favorable and selling rather general after opening Liverpool. The south were reported well. Offers at first were not pressed and the market steadied up and at the moment there seems to be very few contracts for sale and the market ruling very steady. It is believed there is still a good deal of buying against the longer positions and if it be true we may expect a further rally. Crop and weather conditions are being ignored and all eyes are centered on the consumption, which continues large and the scarcity of contracts in this article. Commission houses and Wall street have been put down as buyers during today's session. It would be natural to assume that the technical position was weaker after the enormous short covering for the past week, but the bulls contend that new shorts lock their places and would be easily frightened to cover on any substantial buying; therefore, it is wise to caution for the present.—Anderson.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Three Democratic says: Favorable temperatures all over the belt and further rains in sections where needed, assisted the reactionists, and the opening of this time was rather well defined about enough to widen out the interval against yesterday as much as it was narrowed Tuesday. Low price people so promptly retired their efforts that underlying conditions are better bearish and asserted the market will now prevail. However, crop reports at the moment are badly mixed, and range all the way from "the best on record" to "the worst in years."

Making full allowance for partisan enthusiasm, the promise of this time is sufficiently improved to modify the influence of the bear promises of a larger yield, which in the balance of the day, means upwards of 15,000,000. With the present acreage increase, favorable weather, the excellent prospects, we are disposed to ignore any talk of a crop in excess of consumption" well within bounds. Meanwhile the talked as a matter of fact, is still in the dark as to the status of the crop, though opinion has it that conditions favor a decrease on an increase over last year of about 3 per cent. Private condition percentage put out by the government on June 25 is going to have a much more convincing reception among consumers than among the trade, which, however, will take the report by buying covers and the latter, for the moment, is disposed to ignore the condition of the crop is better than shown. The creation of market interest has been shaped by these opposing views during the past three days and for this reason the trade bring interest as opposed to speculation. Bullish sentiment is responsible for an exhibition of strength rather than positive power, but has created unexpected technical weakness as a result of speculative selling.

Dallas wires: Texas, west cloudy, showery, central part, partly cloudy, balance clear. Oklahoma, generally part cloudy.

Memphis says: very favorable conditions, part cloudy in both states, rains have been general where except at New Orleans. Fine rains general. Arkansas, Oklahoma, Mississippi, Alabama, Eastern states. Indications are for part cloudy and fair, continued warm, with local showers.

Most important news over night is the discharge of the head of the bureau of statistics, Washington, C. H. Olmstead, for lack of discipline, and for poor administration of his office which sustains the claim that the condition report of May 25, was overstated.

Forecast:

Washington—Unsettled, scattered showers tonight or Friday.

New Orleans—Tonight and Friday, unsettled; light easterly winds on the coast.

West Texas—Tonight and Friday unsettled.

Oklahoma—Tonight and Friday unsettled.

Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Alabama—Fair tonight and Friday.

Kentucky—Fair tonight and Friday.

Tennessee—Fair tonight and Friday and continued warm tonight and Friday.

Mississippi—Probably fair and warm tonight and Friday.

Mitchell, Schill and Schley good sellers, Looks to us if July will be the weakest day to put market lower.

Hasbrouck Bird's latest report says: Week's development decidedly favorable for Texas and Louisiana. While too cool for the rest of the belt, too cool weather is not causing any uneasiness enough to do damage. Rainfall favorable in Oklahoma, Mississippi, Missouri, Alabama; unfavorable in Georgia, South Carolina and Florida. The Atlantic coast weather is imperative to prevent crop getting in grass, while all the rest of the belt the better in condition without excessive rains to do damage or any unfavorable development.

Liverpool says: New York wires follows: January 11.41; July 12c; August 11.96; October 11.53.

10 a. m., bids in New Orleans were: January 11.54; July 12.24; August 12.04; October 11.52.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS DULL AND IRREGULAR

Union Pacific, Reading, Steel and Atchison Off—Petroleum Stocks and St. Paul Up

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 19.—There was a recession in all parts of the list at the opening today. Union Pacific and Interborough preferred fell back a point or more. The first sales of transactions were registered for all of the other leading stocks with the exception of Canadian Pacific. Trading was active for the first few minutes but after the first rush of selling orders the market grew quieter.

Stocks seemed to be wanted at the lower levels and demand arose which pulled prices the list sharply in spots. Ontario and Western was again marked up on dividend expectations. General selling broke out again later with particular heaviness in Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific.

Scaling down of the short interest on the recent rise in stocks and falling off in investment buying at the higher quotations caused the market to incline to react during the morning.

With no new developments prices sagged, investment stocks suffering the largest losses. Obligations railroads and specialties displayed heaviness at times.

Bonds were steady.

Completion of the London selling removed a weight from the market and the early afternoon movement was unward. Demand, however, did not follow the rise and trading became stagnant after small fractional recoveries. Woolworth broke 4 points on the recession.

FINANCIAL BUREAU ON STOCKS.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Financial bureau says: We would not buy stocks, but favor buying opportunities should be embraced and purchases may be made with the intention of averaging daily operations. Action is looked for today on the application of the eastern mail roads for increased freight rates. Information channels are friendly to the native issues.

NEW YORK STOCK LETTER.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Considering the advance, it would not be surprising if the recession developed further, although a little more buying appears to be coming in from the country. Sentiment is more cheerful and from the character of the scale buying it looks as if large interests are willing to increase their holdings on all fair reactions.—Potter.

LONDON STOCKS.

Cotton Crepe for Lingerie Blouses

Blouses under the caption of "lingerie" will be made principally of net and cotton crepes. For the latter there are any number of novel effects—stripes, dots, crepe with a cotton sponge stripe, and the brocaded cotton velvet crepes.

Women's Movement in Russia

(8 page item 4.)

Women workers, mainly employed in the textile trade, held a "woman's day" recently. The meeting was subject to variousopolice restrictions, and the delivery of addresses by a Duma radical deputation and the Divinsk suffragettes was prohibited. The speakers dwelt upon the conditions under which they had to work, declaring that these could only be remedied by the granting of the franchise to their sex.

YOUR INTEREST

In the June Bride

It could be no better expressed than by a worthy piece of Silver---a Platter for instance, or one of the kindred plates or trays or dishes.

Our suggestion is backed by a complete variety, and dignity speaks from every well drawn line of them, the dignity of character and good taste.

INTERESTING WEDDINGS

Lyle-Harper Wedding A Beautiful Event

An event of much interest was the wedding of Miss Anne Lyle and Mr. Marion Harper, which took place Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at St. Mark Methodist church.

Bishop Warren A. Candler performed the ceremony, Rev. A. M. Hughlette assisting.

Miss Martha Francis was maid of honor and little Margaret Wade and Mary Sue Prim were the flower girls.

Mr. Claude Douthit was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Mitchell King, Mr. William Schroder, Mr. Henry Kennedy and Mr. Julius Jennings.

Mrs. C. E. Dowman, Jr., of Birmingham, played the wedding music.

The church was handsomely decorated with palms and ferns, big clusters of hydrangeas and Ascension lilies showing whitely against the dark background.

The two little flower girls entered the church just before the bride, scattering rose petals from pretty Marie Antoinette baskets. The bride came in on the arm of her brother, Mr. E. C. Lyle.

She wore a lovely gown of white charmeuse, which was trimmed with princess lace and embroidered with pearls. The graceful draperies were held in place by clusters of orange blossoms, which also caught the veil of princess lace to the head. Her bouquet was of valley lilies and orchids.

Miss Francis wore a gown of rose-colored brocade, lace-trimmed and embroidered with brilliants. She carried pink roses and valley lilies.

A reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lyle followed the ceremony. The decorations were in pink and white, clusters of pretty blossoms being used with many ferns and palms.

Mrs. Julian Prado, Mrs. R. K. Rambo, Mrs. E. T. Wade and Mrs. George Westmoreland presided at the punch bowls.

Mrs. Lyle was gowned in white charmeuse trimmed with rose point lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper will spend the next three months touring Europe.

Daniel-Theile

Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Daniel announce the marriage of their daughter, Ethel, to Mr. Frank H. Theile, of Chattanooga, Tenn., Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in the presence of the immediate family.

Davenport-Hamm

The marriage of Miss Ellen Davenport to Mr. J. A. Hamm, of Fort Pierce, Fla., took place on June 4, at the home of Judge F. L. Hemmings and Mrs. Hemmings, a sister of the bride.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. C. Norton, only a few of the intimate friends of the contracting parties being present.

The bride was reared in Fairburn and received her education in LaGrange Female college. Her musical education was completed with a year and a half of study and travel in Germany. She is a young woman of many accomplishments and a musician of rare ability.

She was honored for twelve years with a position in her alma mater, and has been at Ruth Hargrove seminary at Key West, Fla., for the past year.

The groom has many interests in and around Fort Pierce, and has proven in worth and business ability since his residence there.

Many social events were given in their honor during the ten days previous to the wedding.

After a stay of two weeks at Sea Breeze, Mr. and Mrs. Hamm are at home to their friends at "Villa Laurene," Fort Pierce, Fla.

The Art of Dressing

There is nothing that bolsters up self-respect and creates self-confidence like the feeling of being well-dressed. Certain of correct personal appearance, most men will approach any person or situation with assurance. Conscious of an ill-cut coat or a gaping collar, they will often quail before the observant stare of a street urchin.

To dress well and obtain this feeling of confidence is an art. To accomplish it on a limited income requires unceasing vigilance. Carefulness in expenditure obtains infinitely better results than recklessness. "Look before you buy" should be the motto of every thrifty man and woman.

The kind of looking that helps the most in the shortest time is the careful reading of advertisements in THE JOURNAL. They will answer for you these vital questions:

What?
Where?
When?
How Much?

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

There is something new in the way of veils and gloves. The novelty in each is intended to conceal some of the skin exposure to which women have lent themselves since last March.

The low neck and the extra short sleeves that have been brought into fashion by the new ideas in gowns are acceptable to more women than any one thought they would be, but now and then there are women who have sufficiently good taste to cover up part of the neck and arms left bare by prevailing fashion.

The new afternoon frock has already come under your observation, for American women took it up with great enthusiasm as soon as it appeared and they now wear it everywhere during hours where a cost suit would be more suitable.

The short sleeve in the afternoon gown is exceedingly new. It was brought out at the June races in Paris and was decidedly different from anything we have seen for decades; it was not over five inches long and was put into the armhole at back with two box plates so that it might kick out from the arm and expose it to the shoulder.

You may think this is really a sleeve for evening wear, and so it would be at any other recent time in the history of fashions except just now, but it is for afternoon wear and has been revived because of the other Victoria fashions which prevailed in the early 60's and which women consent to wear now. Then our ancestors wore three-inch puffs for sleeves and a five-inch decolletage on their street gowns and dampened their India muslin evening frocks that they might cling to and outline the figure. Modest ancestors! And yet how shocking the world tries to make out your progeny.

It was only natural that the manufacturers who invent accessories should get out new kinds of veils and gloves to meet this new fashion, so the birdcage veil, called by the name of Reboux, the French modiste, is considered quite smart to wear with a low gown on the street.

Veils With Neck Bands.

It is of net or lace, plain or figured, and is gathered at the lower edge to a neck band of satin ribbon which fastens with clamps at the back and therefore does away with the necessity for invisible hairpins and small barettes and all the other dressmaking things that women have to use in order to adjust their veils with neatness and accuracy. The top edge of the veil is gathered into another band of ribbon, whic his finished with a small flat bow at the back and fastened with clamps.

You can see for yourself how easy the adjustment is and how many possibilities there are in such a veil. For instance, one can wear a plain bat without trimming and provide it with a crown band by using the ribbon to which the upper edge of the veil is gathered and provide a neckband in imitation of the velvet ribbons that are now tied under the chin or behind the ear, to which the lower edge is gathered.

The hat band is not so important as the neck ribbon, which is attached to the lower edge of the veil because many women need something to cover the hollowness in the neck when they wear a low gown, and all women look somewhat the better by wearing osem kind of accessory below the chin on the street, for it makes the neck look less naked.

The Kew Kind of Glove.

It is not possible to go out in the afternoon wearing a frock with a new kind of short sleeve and not wear the long gloves which the manufacturers have invented to meet the occasion. These are thirty-five buttons in length, and even longer, and they are wrinkled from wrist to shoulder and cover all the arm.

The effect is not pretty unless one wears a white or light gown, in which case the long expanse of white kid on the arm is not a decided contrast, but when one years a gown of any ordinary color, and especially of black, the white or buff sleeve is too conspicuous for beauty.

Yet what is one going to do if one insists upon wearing this new kind of sleeve? The public should be thankful that there has been a glove immediately made to wear with it or we should no doubt see women going around with their bare arms swinging free of their frocks like prize fighters.

RED MEN'S CONVENTION ENDS WITH FLOURISH

Reports of Officers Show the Splendid Progress Made by Order in Year

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 19.—The second and last day's session of the great council of Georgia, Improved Order of Red Men, has been devoted to the winding up of routine affairs of the convention, the business of the day being conducted in executive session and strictly of a routine nature. The convention comes to a close this afternoon, practically all of the business having been disposed of this morning, and a number of the visiting delegates leave the city on the afternoon trains for their homes in various sections of the state.

The steamboat excursion down the Chattahoochie last evenning was a delightful feature of the convention. Near 300 members of the popular order, accompanied by a number of ladies, went on this trip. The party returned to the city at 8 o'clock last night, after spending some five hours on the waters, most of the time in the moonlight.

Unusual interest centered in reports of the officers at yesterday's session of the great council. The report of the great chief of records showed that there had been an increase of thirty-four Pocahontas lodges during the year, and that a number had suspended. At the last annual session, held at Griffin, there were 8,062 members of the order in Georgia, while at present there were 8,096. A decrease in the, ranks of the Daughters was reported.

The Evening Story — THE DREAMER

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

"I'm completely discouraged with him," whimpered Mrs. Brooke. "I'm sure I don't know what to do. I've said and done all I could, but you might just as well talk to the wind that blows. He doesn't hear me no more than as if I was this fence. I'm sure I don't know who he takes after, Mrs. Young. His father never read anything more than a newspaper, and I've never had time for even a novel. Yet Raymon just sits there day after day, and night after night, with a book before him. Such queer books, too! Poetry and other stuff that I can't make head or tail of. Some day I'll show you his room. It's lined with bookcases. He'll go without shoes to buy a book, and then he won't eat or sleep till he's read it. He don't care about the boys or the girls, either, for that matter. He seems to just want to read—read—read. It worries me to death. I'm afraid sometimes he'll go out of his head."

"It's a pity," sighed Mrs. Young in sympathy. "I don't know what to tell you to do, Mrs. Brooke. My children are all around. None of them ever had the book craze. Maybe Raymon will get over it."

"Get over it!" cried Mrs. Brooke. "Why, he's getting worse all the time. It's a good thing we ain't poor. I'd fare pretty bad, I guess, if I had to depend on Raymon. Sometimes I'm almost glad my husband didn't live to see him raised. It would have broke his heart."

She wiped away a tear on the back of her plump, freckled hand. Mrs. Young sighed again as loud as she could. And they stood each in her own silence with the picket fence between them.

"Well," said Mrs. Brooke at last, "I must take my garden truck in and start dinner. I noticed Raymon has a good appetite if he is bookish."

It was the prettiest of June weather, all blue above and all green below, with the soft veil of the sunshine shimmering between. The garden had begun to yield its first crops; housecleaning was over and the interest money all made, so that there was no need to trouble about finances. Mrs. Brooke should have been happy. She had stated the case clearly. Her fond idea of what a son should be was one who donned overalls at seven in the morning and went whistling to manual labor even as his father had done. Not that they needed, money. There was plenty, and a silly aunt of Raymon's, who imagined she saw something unusual in the bay, had left him a slice of her fortune when she died. He made it cover all his personal needs. Sometimes Mrs. Brooke wished harshly that Raymon was obliged to come to her for money. "I'd tell him what's what. But you can hardly dictate as to the way a twenty-three-year-old man shall spend his own money," she thought.

Mrs. Young, the across-the-fence neighbor and a woman not unlike herself, was Mrs. Brooke's confidante. They met and exchanged tribulations with that absolute freedom which is the prerogative of simple-minded women, and each returned to her duties relieved and heartened by the common exchange of confidences.

Mrs. Brooke entered her pleasant kitchen, tumbled the young vegetables from her apron into the sink, and lumbered heavily up the back stairs to her son's room. She entered so quickly that she took Raymon by surprise. His sensitive face flushed, and with a quick movement he drew a large book over the pad he had been scribbling upon. Mrs. Brooke looked at him disapprovingly and sat down upon a chair by the door.

"Hadn't you better take a walk before dinner, son? Do you mean to sit out this whole day in this room?" she demanded.

Raymon looked up at her appealingly. He was as delicate and brown as she was large and fair. There certainly was no resemblance of mother and son between the two. "I shall take another walk and perhaps play tennis a while before supper," he said gently. "Until then I—I expect to be busy."

"Busy?" Mrs. Brooke flung up her nose. "Busy! Busy at what? You might better be cutting out paper dolls. Oh, Raymon, you do try me so! Books—books—books! And what does it all amount to?"

She glanced about the room. Raymon flushed cruelly. "Mother, dear, if you'd only have a little patience with me. I know I'm different. Sometimes I wish I wasn't. And again I feel it's all going to come out right. You see," he smiled, "I have to try to be patient, too."

Mrs. Brooke merely looked dejected. The ringing of the doorbell aroused her and she went downstairs.

A girl had rung the bell—a pretty, blonde girl in the trimmest of gray suits and hats. "Good morning, Mrs. Brooke!" she cried sweetly. Then, as Mrs. Brooke still looked at her speculatively and doubtfully, she added, hastily: "My name is Dorothy Linden, and I've a letter of introduction to you from Mrs. Silas Bates of Arles." She produced the letter.

"Yes, I know Elisa Bates," said Mrs. Brooke, her face softening with pleasure. She read the letter deliberately. Her inadequate education made letter reading a struggle always. She looked up from it with a smile. "Why, all right," she said, holding out her hand cordially. "How do you do, Miss Linden? I thought when I first saw you that you was an agent of some kind, so you must excuse my manner. Come right in. I want to hear all about Arles and Eliza Bates."

The girl followed her into the parlor. She looked amused. She looked more amused by the time she had answered a hundred or so of Mrs. Brooke's questions about the old town where she had spent her girlhood.

"And now, Mrs. Brooke ended, what brings you to Westmere?"

The girl laughed. "Oh, I've come to get local color for a story I'm writing. I'm staying at the Restmore," she said.

THE THIRD DAY THEY WENT OUT CANOEING.

Mrs. Brooke gasped with incredulity. "A story writer!" she exclaimed. "Why, you're one of the bookworms, I guess. I've got a son who is another. I'll call him down, Ma'am; you can talk to him. And you better take off your things and stay to dinner. I'd be pleased to have you."

The girl accepted the invitation and Mrs. Brooke left the room to call Raymon. He came down hurriedly. Mrs. Brooke took him by the arm and hauled him before her guest and then she left them together.

When an hour later she came to call them to dinner she found them on the best of terms. Raymon was leaning forward in his chair, his brown hands clasped between his knees, talking eagerly, earnestly. And the girl was listening just as eagerly. At the table they got into a discussion and Raymon ran upstairs to get a book to prove his argument. Mrs. Brooke looked at him curiously when he came down. She had never seen his face so alight, his manner so full of animation.

"He's nice looking," she thought. "It's a pity he don't amount to more. Well, I suppose he's just as the Lord made him."

After dinner he took Dorothy and the book out to the rustic arbor. When at last she went home he walked with her, bareheaded, his black hair gleaming beside her gray hat.

The next afternoon he played tennis longer than usual. Dorothy was there, he said. The second day he went to call on her. The third day they went canoeing together. The fourth day they had a walk. The fifth day Mrs. Brooke went to see the girl herself.

"Why, I declare, you've got almost as many books as Raymon has," she said as she looked about Dorothy's pleasant room.

"Oh, I didn't bring many," Dorothy replied, "only a working library. I've got plenty at home, though—at Aunt Agatha's, which is all the home I've known since I was left alone. I told you, didn't I, that Agatha had a houseful of gay people this summer? In order to write I just had to get away."

Mrs. Brooke stared at her. "But I should think you'd like young company," she remarked.

"I do, but I like my work better."

"You and Raymond seem to be a good deal alike," said Mrs. Brooke.

The girl colored. "Oh, I'm nothing like so talented as Raymon is," she cried. "Raymon is wonderful. He'll do great things one of these days. How would you feel, Mrs. Brooke, to be the mother of an essayist?"

Mrs. Brooke did not altogether understand. "I guess you give Raymon credit for more'n he deserves," she replied.

And yet it did not seem so when a week later Dorothy came dancing into Mrs. Brooke's presence with a magazine in her hand, leading Raymon. She opened the volume with a whirl of leaves and pointed to a title. "Read that, Mrs. Brooke! And do you see Raymon's name is under it? Doesn't it look fine? I'm so proud of Scrivener, too! Oh, I'm so glad for you, Raymon! Now, you've broken in like this, you'll just have to come to recess. I'll follow, trying to light my little candle from your effulgence." Her blue eyes filled. She looked at her and caught her hand hard. They had forgotten Mrs. Brooke.

Mrs. Brooke looked at the title and at her son's name underneath. The evidence was unmistakable. He was a writer, indeed. And her acquaintance with Dorothy had somewhat taught her that authors have a certain value. She smiled. "It looks nice," she said. "Maybe you two know what it's all about. I wouldn't if I read it. But—" she paused.

Raymon understood. He drew something from his pocket quietly and threw it in her lap. It was a check of sufficient proportions to make Mrs. Brooke lose her breath. "That's yours, mother," he said, quietly. "From this." he touched the printed page. "Is Dorothy's. She inspired it."

And dense though she was, Mrs. Brooke somehow felt that Dorothy had received the better thing.

Wesley Memorial Hospital

The annual dues to the Woman's auxiliary to Wesley Memorial hospital are only $2—50 cents per quarter, as some prefer to pay. By an increased membership, when dues are promptly paid quarterly, at which period business meetings are held, a vast good could be accomplished with this small amount.

Send name and dues to the financial secretary, Mrs. J. H. Bradfield, 501 South Pryor street. Donations are arriving, which bespeaks the success of the approaching linen shower on June 28.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED TIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

For fox or man the better plan
With unknown danger near,
Is to go home and no more roam
Until the way be clear.

That is what Reddy Fox thinks. The thought popped right into his head when Jimmy Skunk told him that the half eaten chicken had been left on the Green Meadows by some one with teeth and feet very like Reddy's own, but bigger. Reddy had pretended not to believe it. "Pooh!" said he. "How do you know that this stranger has feet like mine only bigger? You haven't seen him, have you?"

"No," said Jimmy Skunk, shaking his head. "No, I haven't seen him and I don't need to know that. His footprints are right over here in the sand. Come, look for yourself, Reddy Fox."

"No thanks!" said Reddy hastily. "The fact is I have some very important matters to look after in the Green Forest, and I must hurry along. You'll excuse me, won't you, Jimmy Skunk? If you say that there are footprints like mine, only larger of course I believe it. I would stop to look at them if I could, but I find that I am already very late. By the way, if you will look a little closer at these footprints I think you will find that they were made by a dog. I'm sorry I can't wait for you, but you are such a slow walker that I really haven't the time. Let me know if you find out anything about this stranger." And with that off he started for the Green Forest.

Jimmy Skunk grinned, for he knew that Reddy had nothing more important to attend to than to get away as fast as he could from a place which he felt might be dangerous.

"Don't fool yourself, Reddy Fox, by thinking I don't know the footprints of a dog when I see them. Besides I smelled of them and they don't smell of dog" shouted Jimmy before Reddy could get out of hearing.

Jimmy watched Reddy out of sight and chuckled as he saw Reddy keep turning to look over his shoulder as if he expected to find something terrible at his heels. "I'd never run away until I knew what I was running from!" exclaimed Jimmy with the greatest scorn. "Did you ever see such a coward?"

With Reddy gone Jimmy's thoughts came back to the queer things which were driving all the happiness from the Green Meadows at the very happiest time of all the year. There was that strange terrible voice in the night, the voice that was not that of Hooty the Owl or Dippy the Loon or a little yelping dog, yet which sounded something like all three. And here was this half-eaten chicken hidden in the clump of grass and bushes on the Green Meadows by some one with teeth and feet very much like those of Reddy Fox, only bigger. It was all very queer, very queer indeed. The more he thought about it, the more Jimmy felt sure that the owner of the terrible voice was the owner of the big teeth and the maker of the strange footprints. He was scratching his head as he puzzled over the matter, when he happened to look over to the home of Digger the Badger. Jimmy's eyes brightened.

"I believe I'll make a call on Digger. Perhaps he will know something about it," said he, and off he started.

Digger the Badger sat on his doorstep. He has very few friends, for he is grumpy and very apt to be out of sorts. Besides, most of the little Meadow people are afraid of him. But Jimmy Skunk isn't afraid of any one but Farmer Browns boy, and not even of him unless he has his terrible gun. So he walked right up to the doorstep where Digger the Badger was sitting.

"Good morning," said Jimmy politely.

"Morning," grunted Digger the Badger.

"What do you think of the queer doings on the Green Meadows?" asked Jimmy.

"What queer doings?" asked Digger. Then Jimmy Skunk told all about the strange voice and the strange footprints. Digger the Badger didn't say a word until Jimmy was through. Then he chuckled.

"Why," said he, "that is only my old friend from the Great West—Old Man Coyote."

Palms and ferns formed the decoration of the drawing room, where the ceremony took place, and magnolia blossoms and quantities of feverfew continued a color suggestion of green and white.

The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of white embroidered crepe, the corsage ornamented with a design in seed pearls and veiled with Chantilly lace. Atlanta Club Now Playing Real Game--Baron Club Here Today

ATLANTA GETS TROPHY; LEAGUE PRESIDENT HERE

Big Day at Ponce de Leon, Birmingham Barons the Opposing Club--Musser to Hurl the Game for Atlanta

Today's Line-up

BIRMINGHAM.		ATLANTA.
Marvin, 2b		Long, lf.
Messenger, rf		Welchance, rf.
McDonald, 2b		Alperman, 2b.
Kircher, cf		Bailey, cf.
McBride, lf		Smith, 3b.
McGilvray, 1b		Bisland, ss.
Mayer, c		Agler, 1b.
Ellam, ss		Chapman, c.
Fosen, p		Musser, p.

First of all there is a ball game with the Birmingham Barons, secondly the attendance trophy won on opening day by Atlanta will be presented and third President Kavanaugh will be in attendance to make the presentation speech. All of these features coupled with the presence of a big brass band and the wish to beat Birmingham's attendance figures should draw out a large crowd and make the game quite interesting.

The attendance trophy, which is to be presented Atlanta, was won on the opening day of the season at Ponce de Leon when Atlanta turned out 8,-836 fans. It will be handed over to President F. E. Callaway, of the Atlanta association.

Right now Atlanta is in another battle with the Birmingham bunch. This time it is to turn out a larger crowd than was shown on flag raising day in Birmingham. In Birmingham the crowd *numbered but 3,207 fans and certain*ly the Atlanta fans are not going to allow this handful of fans to win an attendance fight. We can't afford to see any such comeoff, Atlanta being too far ahead of Birmingham to stand idly by and see any such state of affairs.

Just before time for the game a Junk boat before time for the game the brass band will parade the streets and arouse enthusiasm. This same band will be on hand at Ponce de Leon during the game and strive to keep the fans in a good humor and also aid Atlanta in winning the game.

Paul Musser and Bill Foxen will be the rival flingers with Harry Chapman catching Musser and Mayer backstopping for the Barons. Both these hurlers are good and the game should be close.

Atlanta has been going strong of late and expects to win over the Barons. However, the Birmingham club has been greatly strengthened since it was last at Ponce de Leon and the winning will not be as easy as in past games. Bill Smith's team won two straight games and are out to keep the mark going.

W. M. KAVANAUGH.
Southern league president, who will award attendance cup to Atlanta at Thursday's game.

Bank Holds McCarty's Money

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 19.—The officials of the German-American bank *at Los Angeles have refused to relin*quish $8,000 deposited there by Luther McCarty, the pugilist killed at Calgary.

Attorney Patterson, retained by the estate, said the bank's action was due to the county officials desire to collect a collateral inheritance tax.

Clabby Calls Bout Off

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 19.—Jimmie Clabby, of Hammond, Ind., will not meet Jack Dillon in the ten-round bout scheduled here at the American association ball park the night of July 3. Bill McKinnon, of Boston, has been substituted for Clabby. Young Saylor, of this city, will box Battling Terry, of Pittsburg, the same night.

Harvard Wins In Great Game

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 18.—The baseball nine of Harvard and Yale battled for fourteen innings yesterday to a Crimson victory, evening the series and making necessary a third game. The score was Harvard 4, Yale 3. A closer contest has rarely been fought between the two ancient rivals.

The Crimson tied the score at 3 to 3 in the ninth and in the last half of the fourteenth, with one man out, Gannett lifted a high fly back of second base. Cornish dropped the ball and Gannett slid into second. Hardwick then sent the ball far beyond the left fielder. It would have been good for a home run ordinarily, but Gannett had crossed the plate with the deciding tally when Hardwick reached second. Finishing the circuit of the bases, Hardwick ran into a wild ovation and was carried from the field by exulting graduates.

Harvard took the lead in the first inning on Clark's home run, but Yale evened it up in the third and took the lead with another tally in the fourth. Passes by Felton, the Harvard pitcher figured in each score. Another run was rolled up by Yale in the eighth, but Harvard, which had also scored one in the fourth, tied up the game with a tally in the ninth. Harvard's rally in the fourteenth settled the game. The next contest will be played in Brookline Saturday.

PELKY WILL FACE TRIAL

CALGARY, June 19.—Arthur Pelkey, the pugilist, was to be placed on trial before Chief Justice Harvey today, charged with the murder death of Luther McCarty in the first round of their fight at the Burns' arena here May 24. The defense has indicated it will show that the blow delivered by Pelky did not cause the dislocation of McCarty's neck and his subsequent death. One medical expert was brought here from Philadelphia and many sport promoters and newspaper men have been called as witnesses.

Selection of a jury was expected to take considerable time.

ATLANTA FIRST AT BATTING; OUT-HIT THE NASHVILLE CLUB

Crackers Hit Almost .300 in Vol Series—Increase Team Average

The Atlanta club hit almost .300 as a team against the Nashville pitchers, thereby increasing the team's average for the year and keeping Atlanta in first place.

It looks as if the Crackers are regaining the form they showed at the first of the season.

Nashville outfielded the Crackers, but could not clout the pill with anything like the regularity of the locals. Neither were their hits as long and as timely.

E. Carter and Smith Likely To Hit Finals

Smith Has Already Fought His Way to the Semi-Finals While Ed Carter Is Out for the Same Honor

Referee Frank Reynolds, the only honest to goodness tennis promoter we know of, will have the Georgia state tournament up to the final round by Thursday afternoon. Despite the rain in the early part of the afternoon Wednesday's play was started about 4 o'clock and some progress was made in the doubles and the consolation singles.

The best match of the day was the Grant-Thornton vs. Orr-Ramspeck, but this was a little short of expectations. The playing was not as fast as might have been put up on a drier court. Thornton featured the match by his smashes from all points of the court. The net play and volleying was fast on each side. Another pair of double contenders came through with their match, Mansfield and Smith defeating Porter and Matthews. The former team was a little weak on lobs which were played to them altogether during the match.

Young Tom H. Williams ran one set of his match with Carleton Smith into dace, playing some very pretty tennis. On the whole, the tournament's stars did not seem to get to going as good as they have been seen to go on former occasions. This was possibly due to lack of stronger opposition. The semi-final and final rounds in the singles should, however, prove some of the best tennis on a local court.

Carleton Smith has worked his way to a semi-final place and is waiting to play the winner of the Howell-Hall match, which he will easily get away with. This will put the southern champion in the final round. The lower bracket is much closer and will bring out better tennis. Mansfield and Grant are a set each in their match and the third set will be hard fought. The winner to meet Ed Carter. The ex-college champion is playing the game of his life just now and looks good to meet Carleton in the finals. Paired with Grover Middlebrooks, he has a look in at the doubles.

Yesterday's results and today's schedule follows:

MEN'S SINGLES.
SECOND ROUND.

MEN'S CONSOLATION SINGLES.

W. C. Matthews defeated Nunnally, 6-2, 6-4.

TODAY'S SCHEULE.

OUTFIELD QUESTION

Some of the Writers Don't Think the Cracker Outfield Is Strong—It Looks Good, However, to the Atlanta Fans

BY JULIAN MURPHEY.

The Atlanta outfield either plays rotten ball on the road or the scribes around the circuit have a bad case of sour grapes if the many reports which appear in Southern league sporting sheets are to be believed. During the past month several of the writers have handed the weak outfield talk all of which looks mighty impossible to the thousands of local fans who have seen the Long-Welchonce-Bailey trio work so many good games at Ponce de Leon.

To an Atlanta fan the "weak outfield" dope sounds decidedly rank. Every loyal fan who has seen the Cracker trio work around the large gardens at Ponce de Leon are well satisfied with their work and would not exchange them for any trio now playing for a rival club. They are all fair fielders, jam-up hitters and know the game.

At up to date outfielder means a player who can hit hard and often, run the bases well, throw with accuracy and field moderately well. Now all these qualifications may not be possessed by the Cracker outfield, but some two are at least shown and the fact that they are so strongly shown more than makes up for the deficit in the other one.

DON'T THROW SO WELL.

In stating that the Cracker outfield is the best in the league, which will hardly be denied, it must be admitted that they are a bit weak when it comes to throwing. Of the three Welchonce has the best arm, or we might say has shown the best arm to date. Tommy Long has a far better arm than he thinks and if he would but cut them loose a bit quicker after fielding the ball he would fare far better on checking base runners trying to score from third on an outfield fly, or hold the hitter of one less base. As for Bailey this boy is a puzzle. Often he flings 'em around in fine style and then again he does not seem to get so much distance or accuracy.

An outfielder to hold down hsti must get a quick start and filed the ball cleanly and this the Atlanta outfield, it must be admitted, has not been doing. They are not utilizing their speed as they should and this has let many hits travel for a few more bases than they were labeled. With the natural speed of Bailey, Welchonce and Long all hits should be cut down to their lowest value.

As to the hitting of the outfield trio there can be no complaint. Both Welchonce and Long are way over the .300 mark while Bailey is now hitting fairly well but not up to his standard. All three, however, can bit the ball and are apt to break up a game at most any old time. If there is another trio of outfielders in the league who are better in the same class with the Crackers they have not been shown here.

Another kick that might be registered against the Atlanta outer works men is that they are not running bases as they should. All three are fast and have been at the game long enough to know how to get around the bags yet the team as a whole ranks last in the matter of stealing bags, this being mainly due to the fact that the three outfielders haven't swiped their full share. A change in tactics, which would let them try to steal oftener might help a bit.

Circuit Hits Feature Game

Goalby Got Fluke Homer While Bisland and Callahan Hit Clean Ones

Now it is tied, and now it is not, is the way the game went yesterday. On account of the fact that the game was delayed thirty minutes by the inclemency of the weather, it was tied when darkness came, and the referee broke the tie clinch until some subsequent date.

Nashville took the lead in the fifth when Goalby's hit struck a rock and bounced over Tommy Long's head for a homer. In the seventh the heavenly twins who broke up the second game got busy and started the argument again. Smith tripled to deep center and Bisland followed with a clean homer, giving the Crackers the lead. Both teams scored in the eighth, and Nashville tied things up hopelessly in the ninth.

The Crackers hit hard enough to win several times, but errors and poor base-running held them back. The feature of the game was the length of the hits made, three home runs and Wallop's triple figuring largely for both sides.

Dent worked well for the Crackers, and although he was hit quite often, he kept hits so scattered that with an even break of luck he would have held the Vols to one run. Kid Williams, who is considered Nashville's bear cat, had the Crackers buffaloed until the seventh when Wally Smith got his number, from that time on things went from bad to worse, and the Kid had to be extracted from the box in the eighth.

NEW SAINTS WILL ENTER PLACE IN HALL OF FAME

Chattanooga Scribe and Manager Are Too Good for This Section

The well known press agent of the O. B. Andrews baseball club, known to some as the sporting editor of the Chattanooga Times, is out again and there is no officer to snag him back.

This publicity person begins his tale of woe with the statement that he is not accustomed to replying to misrepresentations of his own utterances. As he has replied at a tedious length in the present instance, we have no other alternative but to believe that the utterances were not distorted.

The utterances in this case happen to be a defense of the disgusting performance of Kid Elberfeld on the occasion of that ball player's last visit to Ponce de Leon park.

No fan who saw the game will forget the loud-mouthed profanity which the Kid vomited at the umpire and the players and which was so audible in the stands that many ladies left the field and a number of persons complained to the management in regard to it.

Believing that no ball player has a right to blacken the atmosphere of any ball park with the low vulgarity which the Kid displayed on this occasion, we took occasion to roast him and roast him hard. That he deserved it is only proven by the storm of hisses and cat calls with which the fans greeted him next day every time he waddled to the plate.

Now, of course, it is entirely possible that from his seat at the feet of President Andrews in far-off Chattanooga the sporting edior of the Times has such keen intuition and mental acumen that he at once discerned that Elberfeld's actions were gentlemanly, praiseworthy, and more. At least one would judge so from the fact that this publicity person immediately took up the cudgels in the Kid's behalf. Without other knowledge of the circumstances than his own prejudiced and warped judgment this publicity person proceeded to indignantly deny that Kid Elberfeld was other than a plaster saint, or words to that effect; that he was never even known to shout "Oh, deah me!" and that the little pantaloon handed the Kid in these columns was a terrible fib, the outcome of an unseemly jealousy existing between Atlanta and Chattanooga.

Of course, being a hundred miles or more away at the time Kid Elberfeld did the cursing, the sporting editor of the Times knows far more about the affair than our humble selves.

Yet we put it to the fans of this city who were unlucky enough to see the game in which the Kid played if he did not curse long and loud, loud enough to be heard at least in the right and left sections of the stands.

The publicity person is right in one particular. The Kid could not be heard a mile. He could not even be heard in the press box. But we have the word of scores of fans that his language permeated certain sections of the stands where ladies were sitting, with a foul and nauseous frequency. If the sporting editor of the Times approves of that kind of stuff in his own little ball yard, we don't here in Atlanta.

We are not afrad to say this for fear some one will attribute it to the fear method he mentions or call it "spite work." No doubt the very people who approve of Elberfeld and others of his stamp will call it that. We are not jealous of Chattanooga so long as Atlanta wins victories over them with the unceasing frequency which has been true of the past. Chattanooga has two things, 'tis true, that Atlanta lacks, but we don't want 'em. A manager who could give Satan himself a few points on how to use the dictionary of obscenity, and a baseball team's publicity agent who, under the guise of a sporting editor's position, backs the Kid up in his dirty work and then glories in it.

Stars of North To Race Best Atlanta Rider

Jack Prince Planning a Big Meeting Later in Season, New Motors Are Coming and Better Time Is Sure

Atlanta will see the championship motorcycle races of America this season. Already Jack Prince and Manager Noon Hudson are laying their plans for a huge championship tournament this fall in which the champions of the north and east will be brought to Atlanta to race against the champions of the south.

To win the Dixie honors will be the effort of the riders at the local track and around the Dixie circuit. The leading riders of this circuit will meet the champions from the north and east in big championship affairs which are slated for Atlanta in October.

Just at present, with only two meets run, it looks to many people as though "Tex" Richards and his Indian "23" had "got it and gone." But this does not necessarily follow, though the husky Texan has manager to win 19 points out of 48 in the two meets he has entered.

Another rider who will soon be in the racing is Morty Graves. This lad is believed by experts to be the greatest rider at the track and one of the very best in America and one of the very few to be brought to Atlanta an "imported" machine, under the mistaken belief that the meet here was to be for "unported" machines only. A machine with ports has a couple of seconds advantage over one that is not thus provided, owing to the fact that the ports assist in the scavenging of the cylinders and Graves' machine is, therefore, a bit slow.

Another feature contender for the honor of meeting the northerners in the fall is Jock McNeil. This Scotchman has had only one real race with Richards and he beat him at that one. The first night, after winning the Atlanta sweepstakes, his gasoline tank went on the blink. In the second meet he won his first heat handily and was going like a mad man in the finals when his oil and gasoline connections went on the fritz and he dropped out. In the second event of Tuesday night he rode a borrowed machine.

Manager Hudson promises a couple of improvements for Saturday night's meet. For one thing the numbers on the riders will be more securely pinned and the riders will be provided with brilliant colored jerseys, so that they can be more easily distinguished.

For another Jack Prince will send his painting force over every seat in the stands, painting out all places where pitch has begun to boil out of the planks. Tuesday night several of the seats were decidedly sticky. By Saturday night they will all be put in perfect condition.

IN DAYS OF OLD.

In days of old when Cubs were bold
And Pirates held their sway;
When Miner Brown deserved the crown
And Wagner stood at bay;
When Chance and Clarke ruled every park
And led each winning fight;
In days of old—the yarn is told—
"In days of old" is right.

The accent, of course, being on the old.

LEADING UP TO THE PIRATES.

All of which is a mere metrical subterfuge leading up to the case of the Pirates, with the Cubs still ranked as an unknown quantity. Not so much was expected of the Cubs after the Chance episode, but we have been informed since late last summer that only one club was to rule the National league this season, the name being Pittsburg.

Yes, it was a terrible cinch for the Pirates. They were to break up the old league by mid-June or July at the latest. There could be no other answer.

AND THEN—

Mid-June has passed and the Pirates started this last week a matter of thirteen games back of the Phillies and eight games behind the Giants. They still look to be a first class machine, but the time is becoming extant when it is considerable of a query as to whether any club in the business can spot the Phillies thirteen games and beat them to the wire. Five games are five games and seven games are seven games, but thirteen games are something else again by quite a bizarre margin. A gap of this sort can be closed, but not with the two clubs traveling at the same pace in their present directions. It will take some time for them to meet under these conditions. Some time and still a day or two more.

PIRATES VS. GIANTS.

The N. L. race was at first tipped between Pirates and Giants. For the time being, if not longer, the race must be considered Giants and Phillies. In the presence of the Giants the Pirates immediately break into a number of small pieces and blow off the field. It has been so for three years. Since 1910 the two clubs have clashed in forty-eight engagements, of which McGraw has won thirty-three and Clarke fifteen. McGraw's percentage against Pittsburg is .690. Clarke's percentage against New York is .310. McGraw for three years has traveled at a pennant clip against Pittsburg; Clarke for three years has traveled at a fallen-in clip against New York. Which is a fair enough answer as to why New York, but little better against other clubs, has led her old rival to the wire.

As long as the Pirates insist upon breaking into fragments against the Giants they are not to be considered as any pennant machine. Their work against the two leading clubs this spring has been a jolting episode in Pittsburg affairs. Out of fourteen games against Philadelphia and New York, Clarke's team has won three and dropped eleven—a fierce showing for a ball club with the natural pitching, batting and fielding ability of the once dreaded buccaneers.

NEXT NOVEMBER.

Back in April they told us the Pirates hadn't started yet. In May they furnished the same reminder. June is now passing and they "haven't started yet." When is the official date of their start supposed to be? Thanksgiving or Christmas?

We are much obliged to the Big Four for keeping the cup at home. The signs are ripe for a hot, dusty summer and we forgot how to drink out of a gourd ten years or more ago.

"England," remarked Lord Nelson, "expects every man to do his duty." Being one's duty is all very well and good, but what does it get you when the other bloke carries the surplus of stuff?

Tyrus Cobb opened the present week thirty points in batting behind Joe Jackson. Is Tyrus getting Tyred? Can it be that he is Joseph to the occasion? Or it the law of gravity about to bring him back?

It never pays to knock the other guy's game. Several thousand of those who came out Saturday to jibe the sport of the "idle rich" were howling themselves purple around the gills at Saturday's dusk.

The British open championship in golf starts this week and "gosh, how England dreads it." After what happened to Mr. Bombardier Wells, after the episode of Heiny Schmidt at St. Andrews and, lastly, after the polo up, set, it wouldn't surprise the "race with the brassie face" to see something untoward happen even around its favorite pot bunkers and yawning sand traps.

IS THIS YOUR PICTURE?

If the arrow points to you and you know it, come to The Journal office and get a ticket to one of the Southern league games at Ponce de Leon. It's an easy way to see the game.

Frank Appeals To Commission

MEMPHIS, TENN., June 19.—Whether President Jones of the Montgomery (Southern league) club made a "proposition" or an inquiry when he wired to Manger Frank of the New Orleans club "will you give Snedecor and $750 for Bagby and Kutin" may be submitted to the National Baseball Commission for determination. Manager Frank, who is in Memphis today endeavoring to arrange a conference with President Kavanaugh of the Southern league, makes this announcement.

President Jones declares his inquiry sent last week was merely one of inquiry and has refused to consummate the deal. On the other hand Frank contends that it was a proposal and insists that the players be delivered. President Kavanaugh has taken the position that the Montgomery club cannot be forced to make the exchange.

"If the league president refuses to reverse his decision," says Frank, "we will carry the battle to the National board and in the event of an unfavorble decision at that tribunal the matter will be carried to the National Commission.

Claim Player Was Loafing

LAGRANGE—, Ga., June 19.—Charging that his third baseman had been laying down to get his release, Manager Randall, of the Gadsden club, almost came to blows with Guitterez in front of the Elmore hotel last night. As a result Manager Randall has indefinitely suspended Guitterez.

Part of the grandstand is just opposite third base on the LaGrange grounds, and the third baseman of the visiting teams gets all the ragging. As a result every third baseman who has come to LaGrange has made numerous errors, and this is the second to be suspended or released in LaGrange, and the fans here attribute it not to the players trying to lay down but to their being rattled.

J. W. Rokenbrod, former shortstop for LaGrange, commonly known as "Roxey," was signed by Manager Randall.

Rivalry For Riding Cup

LONDON, June 19.—The outstanding feature of this year's international horse show at Olympia, which opened today with over 4,000 entries and 111 classes, is the riding and jumping competition for the King Edward VII gold cup for teams of three officers representing the armies of the various nations. The American army is unrepresented on this occasion, but the keenest rivalry exists among the seven other entries—France, Great Britain, Canada, Belgium, Italy, Russia and Sweden.

France has won the cup twice and the French cavalry officers will make a desperate effort to win it for the third time and take it as their permanet property. Russia and Belgium have won the cup once each. England does not want the $2,500 trophy to become the property of a foreign power and the British cavalry officers have been training for its defense at various army posts for several months.

Preacher Wants Boxing Club

NEW YORK, June 19.—The State Athletic commission is in receipt of an application for a boxing club license from the Rev. M. H. Heffernan, pastor of the Catholic church at Sayville, L. I. The commission will grant the license as soon as the necessary bond has been filed, giving Father Heffernan the distinction of being the first clergyman to organize a boxing club since the State Athletic commission took control of this sport.

Fan Identified; Is Given Ticket

G. B. Hulme, of 23 Marcus street, was the lucky fan shown in Tuesday's Journal. His photo was snapped at the game Monday and when he identified himself at The Journal office Tuesday he received the price of a ticket to Wednesday's hot game.

The fan puzzle continues to prove a big hit with fandom. Every fan who attends the game is always looking around for The Journal photographer in an effort to see whether he snaps a section of the stand in which he is seated.

Abbeville Wins

ABBEVILLE, Ga., June 19.—In a one-sided game of baseball Abbeville defeated Pitts, Ga., by a score of 16 to 2. Batteries for Abbeville, Bowen and Stripling. For Pitts, Chalker and McCorvey. Umpires, Dr. Googe and Brice Crow.

Boat Race Trials to Be Held

NEW YORK, June 19.—The final arrangements for the international challenge cup canoe races were completed today. The trial races for American entrants will be held off Tottenville, State Island, July 3-5, and the challenge regatta on Gravesend Bay, July 11, 12, and 14.

The challenging club, Gananoque Canoe and Motorboat club, of Gananoque, Canada, has nominated Ralph B. Britton to sail, and the winner of the trial races which are open to all canoe clubs of the United States will defend the trophy which was last raced for in 1895.

BOY SCOUTS WILL RACE EIGHT HUNDRED MILES

WASHINGTON, June 19.—In preparation for a boy scout relay race from the national capital to Chicago, Dr. P. J. H. Farrell, chairman of the relay committee of the pro-Olympic games to be held in Chicago June 28, will confer today with leaders of the local branch of the boy scouts over the selection of the squad that will start the long race. It is expected that no fewer than 1,- 000 boys will participate in the run of 800 miles and the distance, according to a pre-arranged schedule, will be covered in something under four days. The last runner is expected to arrive in Chicago at the grounds where five games will be held in time for tht opening ceremonies.

E. S. Martin, local scout master, announced that he had a specially picked squad of boys, who will inaugurate the relay dash. They will carry a message from President Wilson to Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, a far as Rockville, Md., where it will be turned over to another squad. The route then runs through Frederick, Fairmount, Gettysburg and Pittsburgh, thence to Chicago by way of Cleveland. No longer distance than a mile will be run by any boy and in many instances a quarter mile dash will be all that single runner will negotiate.

Record Neared By Penn Crew

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 19.—The Varsity four-oared crew record in the Poughkeepsie course, made by Cornell in 1909, came very near being beaten for the second time in two days, when the Pennsylvania four-oared crew rowed the two miles in 10:01 2-5. The record which is 10:01, was beaten three seconds last night, by the Washington crew. The Pennsylvania four did the trial in a borrowed shell, which does not fit the men, and ploughed through the rollers of a steamer.

The other crews which are to participate in the inter-collegiate championships Saturday did light practice today.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Why Was the Poultry Department of the Georgia Experiment Station Abolished?

An Answer to the Above Question, by Arthur F. Rolf, the Poultry Husbandman at the Georgia Experiment Station.

To the request of many breeders I wrote Professor Rolf, the professor at the experiment station, to know why the poultry department was abandoned. The very interesting letter from him will explain the situation fully, and I suppose the breeders of Georgia will have to submit to it, as we cannot do otherwise, but we are certainly overlooking a great work that could be done that would save millions of dollars for Georgia, and are of far more importance than agronomy. Will bring quicker results and put more dollars in our pockets immediately than all the money we could spend for any work that could be done in agronomy.

The following is Prof. Rolf's letter:

I have repeatedly been asked the above question, and, to one and all, the only answer that I can give is: I DO NOT KNOW. Now that is a short answer; it tells what I know about it, although I may have some personal surmises; but, it does not give much satisfaction to the persons seeking for an explanation.

In April, 1912, the board of directors of the Georgia Experiment Station passed a resolution which appropriated $2,500 from the state fund of the station, to be used in establishing a poultry department at the Georgia station. All expenses of establishing the department, and all expenses connected with the maintenance for the first year were to come out of that sum.

At the next quarterly meeting of the board of directors, held in July, 1912, Arthur F. Rolf was appointed as poultry husbandman, to take charge of the poultry work. Arriving at the station on the 20th of July, it was found that some birds and equipment had already been purchased. Work was taken up at this point, additional equipment added as needed, and some experimental work was gotten under way. In spite of the fact that this was a new department, with nothing much in the way of equipment, some results were achieved from experimental work during the first year.

A bulletin—"Poultry Notes," has been published, giving the results attained in experimental work on—1. Farm Poultry Housing; 2. A New Treatment for Cloacitis or Vent Gleet in Poultry; 3. The Action of Vetol on Layers and Breeders; and 4. The Oculum Treatment of Roup.

In addition to the work above outlined, other investigations were pursued, but not enough time was allowed to finish this work. Under this head might be placed a test of systems and mangement, including a comparison of the results obtained with pure bred fowls on free range, with house and limited yard space, and on the no-yard plan. In connection with this test, there was also a pen of average mongrels as found in the country or villages, kept under exact country style conditions. A further test of parcel post as a method of shipping eggs for hatching was also under way. This test was a comparison of express and parcel post, with the effects of each on the fertility of the eggs, and the vitality and standard of the embryos and chicks.

However, on July 1 of this year, this work is to be discontinued. This action was determined upon at the meeting of the board of directors held in April, 1913. At this meeting of the board Director-emeritus H. J. DeLoach was asked to present recommendations as to the future policies of the station, and any changes he wished made. In regard to the poultry department, Mr. DeLoach reported as follows:

"9th—In reference to the poultry department I recommend that this feature of station work be discontinued and the funds now used for that department be transferred to investigations in agronomy.

"Poultry husbandry should be made an extension propoganda in the south, and in as much as the ruling at the office of experiment stations is against any extension work among stations supported only by the federal government, I have concluded that other work could be made more effective and perhaps more legitimate.

"Agronomy is greatly neglected among our southern stations, and yet in importance it is second to none."

The action for Director-elect DeLoach's report to the board of directors. The poultry husbandman was not called into the meeting, nor did he know anything about the action of the board until after the board had adjourned. In this connection, it might be mentioned that in the controversy over the department of chemistry, the department of entomology, and the department of animal husbandry, the members of the staff in charge of these departments were called into the meeting of the board, consulted, and allowed to express their opinions. Not so, however, with the poultry department. Not having been in this meeting then, we cannot state what further arguments were used—but, I know that Director-elect DeLoach is one of the members of the board after the meeting, there was some confusion among the members as to the real reason why this action was taken. Some expressed the belief that it was owing to lack of funds, and others that the poultry work was not experimental work, and therefore was not something to the satisfaction of Washington.

As is mentioned above, not having been present at the meeting when this was discussed, I cannot give the exact arguments that were used, but, I do know that some of the members of the board of directors voted for the abolishment of this department, owing to a false impression which was created on them by the arguments that were used. By some manner of means, the report of Director-elect DeLoach was interpreted, for their benefit, as a bona fide ruling of the office of experiment stations against poultry work at this station, because it was or should be extension propoganda in the south.

In proof of the fact that the board members did not all understand this reason as being the one for the action, I submit a letter, of which I have the original, signed by R. C. Neely, chairman of the executive committee, in which he expresses his understanding that this action was taken solely on account of lack of funds with which to carry on the work. This letter is as follows:

"At a meeting of the board of directors of the Georgia Experiment station, held today (April 22, 1913), it was found necessary to abolish the poultry department of this station, to take effect one year from date, in order that funds which to carry on this work was the one and only reason for taking this action.

"This action in no manner reflects upon Mr. Rolf, who has been employed as poultry husbandman since July, 1912. During this time he has, with very limited funds and under great difficulties, established a very creditable poultry department, and achieved a goodly amount of beneficial results from his experimental work. His work has been perfectly satisfactory in every way.

"I heartily recommend Mr. Rolf to any person, or to any institution which may desire the services of a competent poultryman."

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

QUESTION.
Hilltonia, Ga.

Please give me the names and address of the different sanitariums in Atlanta with whom I may contract to furnish a certain number of dozen fresh eggs each week. Reply through The Journal. H. J.

ANSWER.

There are a number of different sanitariums in Atlanta, Davis-Fischer, Elkin Goldsmith, Wesley Memorial, Tabernacle Infirmary, Grady Hospital, Piedmont Sanitarium, St. Joseph's Infirmary, also many hotels and clubs. None of these will contract with you for eggs unless you agree to give a certain number every week in the year, and you will have to prove to these that you can do this by supplying them during the summer and fall months before you can close a yearly contract.

QUESTION.
Winnsboro, S. C.

Thanks for all previous information. Please tell new long cage to feed developing food to chicks and after that what is best to feed them, what grain food, etc. Thanks for an early reply. H. S. L.

ANSWER.

The best way to feed the developing food to little chicks is by keeping it constantly before them in self feeding hoppers dry where they can get it at all times, and in addition to this once a day they should have boiled oats mixed with their equal of developing food and given to them in a stiff mash. This should be continued until they are fairly well grown, and once a day they should have a feed of any of the scratch feeds offered on the market.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Ten Acre Tract on South Side Sold for $15,000 and Will Be Developed Into a Residence Subdivision – North Avenue Corner Brings $15,000–St. Charles Avenue Sale and Others Rumored–Whitehall Improvement

A pretty fair assortment of real estate announcements was made Thursday. Quite a number of sales have been made in the past few days and will be announced as soon as the legal formalities are complied with.

A distinct increase in the number of inquiries is reported by every agency. While a great many of these inquiries result in no actual business they are preliminary as a rule to actual transactions.

Real estate operators take advantage of quiet periods to get their various holdings in shape to offer, and a good deal of that sort of work is now going on and is bound to be heard from later on.

SOUTH SIDE SALE.

Another important announcement from the south side was made Thursday. It includes a sale and the development of a subdivision.

The Martin-Ozburn Realty company has sold for J. W. Hardwick and J. W. Ferguson to an out-of-town syndicate a ten-acre tract of land on Hill and Harrington streets. The price was $15,000.

This property is inside the two-mile circle, and is just south of Grant Park. It has a frontage of 396 feet on Hill street and 1,026 feet on Harrington.

The purchasers will begin to develop the tract next week. They will lay sidewalks and grade the streets, offering the property in residence lots.

NORTH AVENUE SALE.

E. H. Hinton has sold to H. F. Emery No. 30 West North avenue, at the corner of Spring street, for an aggregate consideration of $15,000, or $250 a front foot.

This property is improved, the lot fronting sixty feet on North avenue, with a depth of 196 feet on Spring street.

ST. CHARLES AVENUE SALE.

W. R. Turman, of the Turman, Black & Calhoun agency, has sold for J. Daniel to Mrs. M. J. S. Rice a vacant lot on St. Charles avenue for $2,500, or $50 a front foot.

This lot is on the south side of the street beginning 100 feet west of Fredericka street.

OTHER SALES RUMORED.

It was reported Thursday that a parcel on Courtland street had been sold for $20,000, and another on Ponce de Leon avenue, in corner, for $15,000, sold for $18,000. Both sales are in contract.

WHITEHALL IMPROVEMENT.

John W. Grant has taken a permit for alterations on the property at No. 95 White hall street. They will cost $12,500. Another story will be added to the present building, making it three stories, and other improvements will be made.

DOOR IN HOTEL HELD BY INMATE AGAINST POLICE

The police declare that L. E. Cloud, an ex-convict, drove to the Terminal and refused to open the door of his room in a local hotel when Call Officer McWilliams attempted to arrest him on a charge of disorderly conduct at 3 o'clock Thursday morning. Later, however, after the policeman stood on a chair and looked through the transom, he surrendered without resistance.

A young woman, who gave her name as Nina Folks, was found by the police in an adjoining room. Both were taken to police headquarters and were released on collateral. After being liberated, Cloud rewired the police from the steps of the station and was rearrested.

In police court Recorder Broyles fined Cloud $25.75 in the original case and $10.75 on the second charge. The woman forefited $15.75 when she did not appear for trial.

NEGRO MELODIES TO BE A FEATURE OF FESTIVAL

One of the features of the forthcoming music festival, to be held at the auditorium July 3 and 4 by the colored people under the auspices of the Atlanta Colored Music festival association, will be the matinee on the afternoon of July 4, in which all the music is to be by negro composers. Negro melodies, arranged by J. J. Work, of Nashville, Tenn. are to be rendered. There will be also classical selections composed by negro musicians. A popular admission rate will be charged, the same for any seat in the house, and one-half of the auditorium will be allotted to white people.

The festival commemorates the fiftieth year of the emancipation of the colored people. Clarence Dufey Hill White, of Boston, the best violinist of the race, will appear on the program of the closing night.

Two choruses are being rehearsed in preparation for the event. They are in charge of J. W. Work, of Nashville, himself a composer as well as a musical director. An invitation has been issued from the federal prison for the singers to give a concert there, and it is probable that the singers will accept. If so, it will be the first time that colored singers have appeared there.

Patti Brown, of Chicago, and Roland B. Hayes, of Boston, are to be the soloists of the festival.

Interest in this is spreading among the negroes all over Georgia, and many are planning to come here for the celebration. One excursion train that will bring over 1,000 has been planned already.

BROWN WANTS FARMING SCHOOL INTER-RELATED

Governor Brown, just returned from the commencement exercises of the State university at Athens, Thursday morning, announced that in his farewell message to the legislature he would reiterate his recommendation of last year that the member of the board of trustees of the State university be selected from each congressional district he made an ex-officio member of the board of trustees of the district agricultural school in his district.

If such a law is enacted, says the governor, there will be a closer relationship between the State College of Agriculture and the eleven district agricultural schools, which will redound to the decided advantage of both schools.

Governor Brown is very much impressed by the work which is being done by the university and its various branches. He declares that it wields a tremendous state-wide influence for good and that it is being conducted along proper democratic lines so that the poor boy is made to feel that he is on an equal footing with the sons of the rich.

MOTION PICTURES USED AT PRAYER MEETING

The first of a series of popular and recreational mid-week prayer services was held Wednesday evening at Wesley Memorial church and was a pronounced success.

Instead of the usual prayer meeting program the audience was entertained with an interesting motion picture film, and the pastor, Rev. W. H. Hendrix, gave a brief talk on "The Significance of the Wednesday Half-Holiday."

It is the plan of the pastor to relate the mid-week services to the Wednesday half-holiday recently inaugurated by the grocers and butchers, and joined by merchants in other lines.

SENATE CUTS TARIFF BUT INCREASES REVENUE

While Many Schedules Are Reduced, Bananas Are Taken From Free List

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Democratic members of the senate finance committee, who have completed their revision of the rate schedules in the Underwood tariff bill, making many reductions in nearly every schedule and amendments to the free list, declare that the total of their alterations will increase the estimated revenue to be derived from the bill as it passed the house by more than $500,000,000.

The bulk of this increase has been provided by taking bananas from the free list and making them dutiable at 5 cents a bunch on the ground that they are controlled absolutely by a monopoly, and by the repeal of an act which exempted brandies used in fortifying wines from the full internal revenue tax of $1.10 a gallon. These two changes, the committee estimates, will bring an annual revenue of about $9,000,000.

Majority Leader Kern sent out today a call for all Democratic senators to attend the party caucus tomorrow.

The majority of the finance committee continued work today on the administrative section of the bill. Some of the more drastic provisions of the Underwood bill would revise the tariff.

PROVISIONS STRICKEN.

The provision of the tariff bill to give government agents the right to investigate the books of foreign manufacturers when import valuations were in dispute was stricken out today by majority members of the senate finance committee. The provision was one which foreign nations opposed.

The committee also struck from the bill the provision to permit attorneys to take up valuation claims or protests on a contingent fee basis.

The administrative section was amended to give the president power to levy duties in retaliation for discriminations against American trade by foreign nations.

The provision to permit a 5 per cent tariff discount on imports in American vessels also is to be stricken out.

Male Suffragist Throws "Tracery" While Horse Was Leading Ascot Derby

(By Associated Press.)

ASCOT, England, June 19.—A male suffragist today flung himself in front of August Belmont's four-year-old Tracery during the race for the Ascot gold cup. The man was fatally injured.

Tracery fell in a heap in the center of the course, but his jockey, Whalley, fell clear of him. Neither horse nor jockey were seriously hurt.

The man sprang over the rails with a suffrage flag in one hand and a revolver in the other while the eight runners in the famous race were turning into the straight for home with Tracery in the lead. He made a grab at Tracery's bridle, brought horse and rider down and himself fell in a heap with his skull fractured by a horse's hoof.

The unconscious man, who was not identified, was removed to the Ascot hospital. A surgeon announced that his condition was hopeless.

It had been thought by the spectators that he was instantly killed.

TACCO GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION IN ATLANTA

The Visit Will Continue Indefinitely, and It's Freely Predicted That Every Home Will Extend an Invitation

Tacco is one of the most welcome visitors that ever came to Atlanta—but Tacco didn't come, for Tacco was born right in Atlanta and is proud of this fact. Until just recently Tacco was unknown to the world, but if the record of popularity of only a few days is to be taken as an indication Tacco will be world famed.

Tacco is seemingly very popular with all the ladies, especially with those who own their homes. Tacco is also popular already with many automobile owners. It is becoming a frequent thing to see Tacco on a large touring car, roadster, or the finest electrics. It matters not what the car is, the owners all welcome Tacco.

Ask the lady of the most exclusive home and she will tell you that Tacco is cordially received. In fact ask the lady of any home and she'll tell you—provided she's met Tacco—that Tacco is welcomed.

But Tacco is not particular about a place to ride, sit or walk. You are just as likely to find Tacco on the side of an automobile as on the back of the seat. In the home Tacco is just as likely to be seen on a bed, as on a chair, table, or perhaps on the finest piano.

Tacco visits drug stores, furniture houses, etc., but never remains here long, for invariably some customer comes along and carries Tacco home with them.

Tacco has the natural gift of making things look new wherever given a home. Tacco has no superior in brightening up old furniture, pianos, automobiles, etc.

Tacco is none other than a handy varnish, which is easily applied with a cloth. Tacco is a varnish pure and simple, not a greasy polish.

NEW REPRESENTATIVE OF CHATHAM GETS BUSY

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 19.—Chatham county's new representative in the legislature, Herman C. Shuptrine, is now considering a number of bills which he expects to bring up, possibly at the next session. Mr. Shuptrine is in favor of a rigid narcotic law, which would require dispensing physicians to keep the same records of such drugs sold as is now required of the druggists. "The present law is weak, he says.

Mr. Shuptrine also expects to co-operate with the medical association in their fight to secure legislation which will exterminate the itinerant drug vender.

NAPLES, June 19.—Fire which broke out in the arsenal early today did damage estimated at $100,000.

Troops from the garrison and sailors from warships in the harbor assisted the firemen in quenching the flames, which threatened at one time to sweep the royal palace. The origin of the fire is unknown.

BACON FIGHTS AGAINST MEXICAN RECOGNITION

Georgia Senator Declares Huerta's Regime Is a Revolutionary Government

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 19.—"The Huerta government is a revolutionary government and not the result of a legitimate succession to the Madero administration," declared Senator Bacon, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, today as he left the White House.

"I am not in favor of recognition," said he. "I don't see any serious movement in Washington leaning in that direction. A large part of Mexico is up in arms and the northern part is in control of the constitutionalists and until there is complete peace and order and legal elections there should be no recognition. I approve of the policy of the president in withholding recognition, as there does not appear to be a stable regime in existence in the Mexican republic."

NO VACATION FOR MAYOR; WILL STAY ON THE JOB

Doesn't Propose to Give Council a Chane to "Put Something Over"

Mayor Woodward will take no vacation this summer.

Hot though the weather, and strenuous mayor though he is, the city's chief executive announces that he will stay on the job and tough it out.

He does not expect this to apply to other employes of the city, however.

"If I went away that would be just the chance that council would be looking for to put something over," says he. "So you'll find me around here all the time, till my term expires."

The mayor's announcement is not surprising. Before he went in office he declared in newspaper interviews that he'd never let council catch him napping.

"What if I should get sick?" he said then. "Why, in that event I'll go to city hall in an ambulance to pass on council papers."

So far no loss of life has been reported.

MUTUAL LIFE WILL NOT PAY PAINTER POLICIES

Florida Manager Declares There's No Evidence to Show Liability of Co.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 19.—"Not one of the policies taken out within the last year in the Mutual Life Insurance company by the late E. O. Painter ever will be paid," declared Cecil Wilcox, state manager of that company, this morning when discussing the action of the Fidelity and Casualty company at Baltimore yesterday, when an injunction was secured restraining a Baltimore chemist from disposing of Painter's organs.

"There insurance people are proceeding orderly and legally with the collection of evidence to show lack of liability under the provisions of the policies. Every stockholder is interested, for the surplus of this company is used as dividends on policies and should this $500,000 have to be paid every policyholder would suffer."

Treasurer Lyman, of the E. O. Painter company, said today that the company had no objection to the vitals remaining in Baltimore until all the insurance companies are satisfied.

Coroner Abbott said that attorneys for the insurance companies at Baltimore had asked permission to keep the vitals there, but he had no jurisdiction.

NO SUBSTITUTE COULD DO THIS.

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr., of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of my head, and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble. My father-in-law, now past 93 years, has taken them and they have added years to his life." (Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 19.—Semi-annual interest on the state's bonded indebtedness will take $178,725 from the treasury July 1, but the amount will be paid promptly even if other creditors of the state have to wait. This statement was made by John Purifoy, state treasurer, yesterday.

Mr. Purifoy said the state's credit should be maintained and that the interest ought to be paid if no other bills were. At the same time he said that he did not think there would be any hardship by the payment of the amount.

SUFFRAGIST KILLS SELF UNDER BELMONT'S HORSE

Male Suffragist Throws Horse and Jockey on Ascot Race Course

(By Associated Press.)

The man was killed on the spot. The horse and its rider, although both were brought to the ground, were not harmed.

Waving a flag of the suffragette colors in one hand and brandishing a revolver in the other, the militant suffragist sprang over the rails just as the field of eight horses, with the American colt, Tracery, leading, were nearing the straightaway for the run home.

With a loud yell of "Stop!" he bounded in front of the horse. Tracery collided with and felled him before the jockey, A. Whalley, had time to avert the catastrophe.

DIVER REPAIRS SHIP 30 FEET UNDER WATER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 19.—Thirty feet below the surface of the water Charles Hand, a diver employed by the John Rourke foundry, has been working on the hull of the bark Anna Maria D'Abundo. The ship, which is now preparing for a voyage to the canal, was found to be in need of repairs, and it is not an easy matter to dock her. With heavy plates of copper the diver went below, and with hammer and nails repaired the leaks. Monday in all but the hull of the old ship. The fact is one that is rarely accomplished here.
